3 U.S. Jets Lost In North Viet Raid; Ground War Slow

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American planes continued raids on North Vietnam's heartland for the fifth straight day today, and the U.S. Command reported the loss of three jets Sunday—two of them downed by Communist MIG interceptors.
Including Sunday's casualties and a Phantom shot down Saturday by a MIG21, U.S. records list 36 American planes and 99 MIGs shot down in aerial combat so far in the war. A total of 765 U.S. warplanes have been reported lost over the North.
Air Force spokesmen have said only about 30 of North Vietnam's MIGs are kept in the country, at Kep, Phuoc Yen and Gia Lam, which also handles international civilian flights and is still out of bounds to U.S. warplanes.
The rest of the North Vietnamese air force—estimated at about 50 MIGs—normally stays in Red China with pilots flying them down for brief periods of combat.
Little ground action was reported.
Two U.S. Marines were killed and 40 wounded when a mortar round fired by other Marines accidentally landed in their position Saturday night near Hoi An, just below the big Marine base at Da Nang, the U.S. Command said.

Leathernecks guarding South Vietnam's northern frontier were getting more Communist artillery and mortar fire at the Con Thien outpost. Five were killed and 31 seriously wounded Saturday and 13 were wounded Sunday.
An enemy rocket and machine-gun attack killed four Americans and wounded 16 at a base camp 74 miles northwest of Saigon a few miles from the Cambodian border.
Crewmen of the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk, en route to the Gulf of Tonkin for her fifth combat tour of the Vietnam war, fought a fire in a tire storage area for three hours Sunday night.
A Navy spokesman at Subic Bay naval base in the Philippines, where the 80,000-ton carrier had stopped over Saturday, said several crewmen inhaled too much smoke but there were no serious injuries. He said damage was minor, no planes were affected and the ship's operational capability was not impaired. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.
Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., touring Vietnam, told newsmen that "when American patience ends, something will have to be done about Cambodia" as an infiltration route for North Vietnamese soldiers. The Cambodian government meanwhile issued another denial that its territory provided refuge for Communist troops. It said it was replying to charges by U.S. Rep. Mendel L. Rivers, D-S.C. The charges were "flagrant lies," it said.

Reds Repair Bomb Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shielded by rainy-season weather that has hampered U.S. air raids, North Vietnam has assembled a huge new oil depot piled with thousands of fuel drums, U.S. government sources say.
The new fuel dump—apparently a key one in supporting the truck movement of war supplies toward South Vietnam—is said to be only two miles south of Haiphong.

Because it lies so close to a population center, sources said, the oil depot would be attacked only if U.S. pilots could see it clearly and bomb visually. This restriction would preclude radar bombing through overcast.

A month-long period of heavy rains over North Vietnam broke last week and U.S. bombers have been concentrating on knocking out bridges and communication links close to Hanoi and Haiphong as apparent first priority. The rainy season is expected to last several more months, so the good bombing weather may not continue for long.

During the monsoon rains and heavy cloud cover, the North Vietnamese reportedly have repaired most of the bridges, railroads, highways and airfields which were pounded by U.S. bombers and fighter-bombers during intense, wide-ranging raids last summer and early fall.

The new oil depot is reported to be close to a stream which the North Vietnamese have dredged recently so that oil tankers can move out of Haiphong harbor and partway up the river where they discharge their loads of fuel drums into barges.

60,000 Navajos in Distress Due to Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajo tribe, rocked by the worst winter storm in memory of old-timers, hopes for a break in the weather to reach thousands marooned by snow up to four feet in depth.
"The situation is pretty terrible," said Frank Chambers, Navajo tribal police assistant superintendent.
Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.
Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

"The first thing we are going to worry about is the people," said an Air Force spokesman.
"We pray for no more snow," said the tribal police superintendent, V. Allen Adams. "The one thing we don't need is more snow. The old-timers say they have never seen anything like it."
At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

King, Junta Deadlocked On Return

ATHENS (AP) — Negotiations between the Greek military junta and King Constantine over his return to the throne appeared deadlocked today after the Greek cabinet discussed the king's terms. There was no indication the military regime would accept them.
Informants said the 27-year-old king, who fled to Rome Thursday after unsuccessfully trying to start a counter coup against the junta, demanded immediate free elections and a halt to revision of the constitution.
The military dictators want the king back to give them a facade of legitimacy. But their terms included continued exile for Constantine's mother, Queen Frederika, and puppet status for the king.
Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis and the Orthodox primate, Archbishop Ieronymos, conferred with Constantine at the Greek Embassy in Rome Saturday, and Pipinelis reported to Premier George Papadopoulos, the regime's strongman, immediately on his return.
The cabinet held a 2½-hour meeting Sunday but made no announcement afterward.
Reliable sources said today the regime has retired five army generals, including the former defense minister, Gen. Gregory Spantidakis, and several other top officers accused of conspiring with the king. It was the second major purge in the armed forces since the April 21 coup in which a group of colonels overthrew the parliamentary government.
Spantidakis, who was in Brussels for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting during the attempted counter coup, now is in Rome with the king.
There has been speculation that the new constitution being prepared by the regime played a part in the king's attempt. Informants said the proposed document would strip the king of his power to appoint premiers and ministers and strengthen the executive branch of government over the legislature.

Protesters 'On Strike'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two teenaged anti-war demonstrators arrested during the Dec. 7 sit-in at the Armed Forces Induction Center continued their hunger strike today.
Decorey Squire, 18, Morgantown, W. Va., maintained her fast at the Cincinnati Workhouse. Michael Mattin, 17, Exeter, N.H., remained at the Rallman Psychiatric Institute where he was taken from the workhouse Dec. 12.
A total of 87 persons, many of them Antioch College students, were arrested during the demonstration. Seventy-two of them asked for jury trials at their arraignment last week. Most of the demonstrators were charged with trespass and several have been cited for contempt of court. The jury trials were set for Jan. 8 to March 29.

Pilot Saver Set for Test In January

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A device that would pluck pilots out of the air after they have bailed out of disabled airplanes will be put to the test next month by the Air Force.
Engineers say the device, when perfected, could be used to rescue pilots forced to bail out over enemy territory.
The new recovery system, developed by the Aeronautical System Division at nearby Wright - Patterson Air Force Base, will be tested at the Defense Department's test facility at El Centro, Calif., in January.
The heart of the system is an energy absorbing winch in the rescue plane. Recovery hooks dangling from the plane latch onto the parachute of a pilot who has bailed out.
The winch controls the gravity forces on the parachute during the period he is accelerating to the pickup plane's speed. The chutist then is hauled inside the plane.
Such a concept is not new. First aerial recovery of a human parachutist was successfully made in the summer of 1966.
The new system, however, is designed for high speed jet aircraft.
Manikins will be used in the initial testing program and live retrievals of personnel may be conducted later if feasibility of the system is proved.
A T-39 jet aircraft will be used as the recovery plane.
Utilizing the technique, jet rescue planes could accompany fighter - bombers on combat strikes deep into enemy territory and rescue flight personnel should an emergency arise, the Air Force says.

Uncle Bill's Hit By Big Burglary

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than $35,000 was stolen from a safe in an office at Uncle Bill's Department Store here during the weekend.
Assistant Manager Joseph Schmickel said the theft was discovered shortly after closing time Sunday.

Australia's Holt Is Lost At Sea; Seek Successor

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The disappearance of Prime Minister Harold E. Holt while swimming in the surf threatens Australia with political crisis and possibly the breakup of the coalition that has governed the country since 1949.
There was almost no hope that Holt could have survived the rip tides that swallowed him up Sunday while he swam off Portsea, 37 miles south of Melbourne.
Bad weather forced suspension of the massive sea and air search today. The tides off Portsea have claimed three other swimmers in the last 10 years without yielding their bodies.
Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen, the leader of the Country party, took over the government helm until Holt's liberal party, the larger member of the coalition, elects a party leader and prime minister.
Federal Treasurer William McMahon, the deputy party leader, was in line to succeed Holt. But observers in Canberra believed his election would drive the Country party out of the coalition because he and McEwen disagree on a number of key issues.
Defense Minister Allen Fairhall and Foreign Minister Paul Hasluck were also considered likely candidates for the Liberal leadership.
Governor-General Lord Casey was expected to announce the presumption of Holt's death Tuesday, although the prime minister's press secretary, Tony Eggleton, told newsmen today: "We are all hanging onto a shred of hope that Mr. Holt is alive."
Holt, 59, was an excellent swimmer and skindiver. He was wearing swim trunks and beach shoes as he walked from his maroon Pontiac to his favorite "rock plunge" at noon Sunday.
An old friend, Alan Stewart, walked out into the surf a good distance behind Holt and watched him dive and disappear beneath the waves.
Stewart said the surf was too rough for him, and when the prime minister failed to surface, he ran to give the alarm. Australians today accepted as fact that their prime minister had died in the sea he loved, and they were greatly saddened.

Crazed Dogs Kill 2 Boys at Play

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — A pack of German shepherd dogs attacked and killed two small boys Sunday while their father fought futilely to save them by clubbing the animals with a rake.
The attack, near a creek behind the victims' home in nearby Madison Heights, included two neighborhood dogs the boys apparently had played with before.
The victims were Gene Anthony Goodman, 4, and Kenneth Goodman, 3, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Goodman of Madison Heights.
Goodman and his wife are in Lynchburg General Hospital where they are being treated for shock.
Amherst County Sheriff-elect Mahlon H. Bryant said Goodman, sobbing, told him that when he reached the snarling pack he beat at the frenzied animals with a rake, his shoes and anything else he could find to turn them away from his bloodied sons.
Two of the dogs were impounded by local authorities. A third could not be caught and was shot to death. Police were looking for a fourth dog but said there may have been only three in the attack.
Bryant said Mrs. Goodman was inside her home at about 3:30 p.m. with her other child, Cindy, 1, when she heard screams from the creek. She called to her husband then ran to a neighbor's house for help.
"I was lying in bed when she knocked on the door," said Morton P. Scott. "My wife let her in and she was crying said some dogs had her boys down by the creek."

"My daughter's a nurse and helped her back up to the house. I ran on over the hill and met Goodman coming up the hill all dazed. He was carrying one poor bloody little boy and he said the dogs had the other boy down by the creek."
"I went down there and saw some dogs but I never did find the other boy," Scott said.
Rescue squadmen found the body later, Scott said, about 300 yards from the scene of the attack.

Ohio Without Bridge Worry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State responsibility for accidents involving bridges would be the same as its responsibility on highways, a state official said today.
John McElroy, aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, noted this in commenting on the collapse of the Ohio River Bridge near Gallipolis, Ohio. That bridge is owned by West Virginia.
He said that by law Ohio cannot be sued.

ONLY CONCRETE PIERS and a few twisted girders remain visible where the Point Pleasant, W. Va. - Kanawha, Ohio, bridge over the Ohio river collapsed loaded bumper-to-bumper with rush-hour traffic. At right is a railroad bridge.

At Least 41 Still Missing At Gallipolis

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Working in a light rain, a water-borne crane probing the Ohio River's depths latched on to a crumpled car early today and brought up three more bodies in the grim search for victims of Friday's bridge collapse.
They brought to 16 the number of known dead. There were 41 persons reported missing.
The car was one of scores of vehicles that tumbled like play-toys off the bridge when the suspension span collapsed into the murky river.
The bodies of two adults and a child pried out of the car's twisted metal remains were taken to a temporary morgue in a state armory.
They were not immediately identified.
Sitting on a barge in the river, the crane also pulled up one huge chunk of the bridge superstructure this morning. It was placed on the barge. It was believed that superstructure pieces were being hauled up in an effort to reach vehicles trapped under the debris.
The 1,500-foot-wide section of the river between Ohio and West Virginia yielded eight bodies from four cars and a truck when the derricks pulled them out Sunday. The other five bodies were recovered Friday, a few hours after the suspension bridge collapsed under the weight of rush hour and Christmas shoppers' traffic.

Forecast of more than one inch of rain for the Point Pleasant area brought with it the fear that the river's level would rise and increase its current. This would seriously hamper divers in their efforts to reach cars crushed under the bridge's superstructure.
The big 40-year-old bridge, a major link between the two states, crumpled into the Ohio River 80 feet below just after 5 p.m. Friday. The center span of the bridge disappeared, leaving only the approach ramps on both sides and concrete piers jutting above the river's surface.
Max Ray, a commercial deep sea diver from New Orleans, said that "you've got to worry about metal falling on you."
Ray spent several hours in the river's murky depths Sunday and said "it's real hairy and dangerous down there. You can't see your hand on the face plate of your mask. It's so dark, pitch black."
The tangled mass of the bridge's superstructure, lying atop the cars and trucks in 40 feet of water "is so shaky I could move the beams by hand. I dropped through the mess of steel and it started to slide," Ray said.
Another problem stemming from the disaster was that river traffic along the Ohio was choked and backed up for miles. Col. William D. Falck of the Army engineers estimated that 60,000 tons of cargo was stalled

Mail Delayed By N.Y. Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Postmaster Vic Bodish of Columbus said today mail sent from New York City to Ohio businesses and residents may be delayed because of three explosions and a fire in post office facilities at New York.
He said mail for Ohio cities normally is separated before being shipped from New York. That mail, he said, is now being moved to Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus for separation and that this may cause a delivery delay.

60,000 Navajos in Distress Due to Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajo tribe, rocked by the worst winter storm in memory of old-timers, hopes for a break in the weather to reach thousands marooned by snow up to four feet in depth.

"The situation is pretty terrible," said Frank Chambers, Navajo tribal police assistant superintendent.

Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.

Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

"The first thing we are going to worry about is the people," said an Air Force spokesman.

"We pray for no more snow," said the tribal police superintendent, V. Allen Adams. "The one thing we don't need is more snow. The old-timers say they have never seen anything like it."

At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

At Rough Rock a family of five, including three children, were extremely ill from exposure, Navajo police said.

Adams estimated 16,000 to 18,000 square miles of the 25,000 square mile reservation largest in the United States, was affected by the storm.

In many areas, deep snow immobilized tracked snow vehicles and other heavy equipment.

There were reports 150 to 200 persons might be marooned in the Pinon, Ariz., area in the northeast section of the reservation. A helicopter, flying from Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., reported seeing mirrors on the ground in the region, signaling for assistance.

The Air Force moved into Window Rock during the week-end to fly helicopters with food and medical assistance. Bad weather had curtailed the rescue operation.

Eight C119 transports dropped an estimated 40,000 pounds of hay on the stricken Hopi reservation in central Arizona, which borders the Navajo area.

"We've got to get the people where they can take care of themselves," Adams said. "The Indian people have lived in hard country all of their lives. They have the ability to survive. They know what to do."

The shepherd's death was one of several caused by the massive storm in the Southwest during the weekend. Three Ft. Bliss, Tex., soldiers died when a chartered bus carrying servicemen home on Christmas leave overturned on an icy highway east of El Paso, Tex.

Other deaths included two occupants of a single-engine plane which crashed onto a central New Mexico mountainside during a snow storm. The victims were Doss Maner, the pilot, of Alamogordo, N.M., and Alex Padilla, of Albuquerque, N.M.

One of four survivors of the crash, Frank Reeder of Albuquerque, said, "I didn't get scared until I looked out and saw tree tops. Then I knew we were in trouble."

Big Question Still Mystery: Why Did Silver Bridge Fall?

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The big question at Point Pleasant is "why"—and no one can answer it.

Federal highway officials have examined the site of the "Silver Bridge" collapse. Three district directors of the West Virginia State Road Commission inspected the mangled wreckage Sunday. Ohio bridge experts have combed the debris for clues.

"We just don't know... we are trying to find out... we may never know," said Paul Crabtree, executive assistant to West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith.

Why does a bridge stand for 40 years and then collapse, leaving only its main supports?

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., thinks the question may never be answered. It may be buried forever in the silt at the bottom of the Ohio River.

"You've got to realize that's just rubble down there," said Hechler. "You can have a lot of experts, but it might take months to sift through the debris. Even then, the experts might come up with 10 possible reasons. But it will be extremely hard, if not impossible, to pinpoint the exact cause and thus prevent future similar calamities."

Hechler sees a lot of similarities between the Silver Bridge disaster and the collapse of the bridge at Ramagen, Germany during World War II.

American troops captured the bridge on March 7, 1945 after the Germans unsuccessfully tried to blow it up.

"They were setting off those charges everywhere, but that old bridge would just rise a few feet, then settle solid," said Hechler.

"It wobbled and it shook, but we moved thousands of troops and heavy armor over it for 10 days, he added. "Then on St. Patrick's Day, it collapsed, killing 25 soldiers."

Hechler, an Army Major and combat historian at the time, became so interested in the Ramagen Bridge mystery he wrote a book about it.

"The Bridge at Ramagen" was published in 1957, just before Hechler was elected to Congress.

"They found a dozen possible reasons why that bridge collapsed, but to this day they don't know the exact cause," Hechler said.

"The immediate need is to establish a traffic link between Point Pleasant and Gallipolis," he said. "The economic implications of this disaster are staggering."

"We're trying to get the New York Central Railroad to establish a shuttle service on the railroad bridge and we're also trying to arrange for a ferry."

Saturday evening marked a high point in the year for the choir of Circleville Bible College as they presented the third annual outdoor Christmas Concert under the shelter of the entrance to the First National Bank in downtown Circleville.

Comments on all sides indicated that this joint enterprise of the Chamber of Commerce and the local Bible college was a great success. Possibly the feelings of everyone was expressed by one of the local business men. The Chamber had arranged for Andy's Catering Service to serve warm drinks to the choir after the concert, but Andy's response was: "After that — it's all on me!"

The outdoor concert was only one part of a busy Christmas schedule. A TV program, the second in succession, was recorded in Chillicothe on Thursday afternoon and an outdoor concert given at the Mall in the evening.

Tonight the choir presents Peterson's Christmas Cantata, "Night of Miracles" at the Ohio Street Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The shut-ins have not been neglected either for groups either from the college or the choir have visited the nursing homes, Berger Hospital and the V. A. Hospital in Chillicothe.

2 Accidents Investigated By Deputies

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated two accidents during the weekend in which passengers in the vehicles involved sustained minor injuries.

At 1:40 p. m. Saturday, Julianne Palm, 29, Knollwood Village, lost control of her car on Route 56 11 miles southeast of Circleville.

Her son, 14-year-old Craig Palm, sustained a bump on the head. He was taken to Berger Hospital by a passing motorist, was treated and released.

Mrs. Palm told investigating officer Warren Straley she lost control of her car when it went off the right side of the road onto the berm.

At 4:45 a. m. Sunday, a car driven by Larry Smith, 28, Coal Grove, was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by Larry H. Turner, 25, of 535 E. Union St. The accident occurred on Route 23 South of Circleville.

Dorothy Swinford, 30, a passenger in Smith's car, complained of a pain in her lower back. She was referred to a physician for treatment. Turner was cited by Deputy James Lockard for failure to maintain an assured clear distance in which to stop. Both cars were moderately damaged.

Jr. High Band To Give Yule Program

The Junior High School Band under the direction of Clifford Kerns will present a Christmas program 2:15 p. m. Wednesday in the Mill St. gymnasium.

The Rev. Kenneth Fuller will present a Christmas message during the program and Sue Bennett will read from Scripture.

Among numbers to be played by the band are "O, Come All Ye Faithful," "Triumphal March," "Ave Maria," "Angels We Have Heard on High," "Bring a Torch," "What Child Is This," "Take Courage Now, My Feeble Soul," "Grant Us Thy Peace."

Kathy Dunkle will play an oboe solo, "Wonder As I Wonder." Mary Beth Rhoads will conduct the band when it plays "Cathedral Chimes."

"Christmas With Our Neighbors" by the band will be numbers from Columbia, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

"Little Christmas Suite" will be a feature of the program. The final number will be "Silent Night" with the assembly singing along.

Friends and parents are invited to attend.

William C. Eddy, Jr., 968 Circle Drive, will be retiring from Du Pont this winter after more than 27 years of service.

Eddy first came to work for Du Pont in 1930 at the Old Hickory, Tenn. plant after receiving a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

After serving in various supervisory capacities at several of Du Pont's other plants he was transferred to Circleville in 1953 prior to the plant's opening.

Since that time he has held top level supervisory positions in "mylar" manufacturing and management positions in the plant's accounting division.

After retiring early in 1968 he and his wife Annie will go to Richmond, Va., to live.

$150,000 Suit Filed in Court

Harold Ray, Mt. Sterling, has filed a $150,000 suit against Donald E. Rolfe, Route 2, Orient as a result of an automobile accident that occurred Dec. 23, 1965.

Ray contends, in his petition filed in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court, that he sustained numerous injuries in the accident which occurred on Route 62.

He claims that the defendant's negligence caused the accident. In addition to losing 11 weeks work following the accident, the plaintiff claims he incurred medical expenses which have totaled, $4,686.75.

The plaintiff is represented by Gerald Tyack, a Columbus attorney.

Stock List Shows Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—A scrambled stock market showed a gain on balance early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by around 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, trimming a more favorable ratio that prevailed in the morning.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.42 at 883.03.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 317.0 with industrials up 2.3, rails off .8 and utilities up .1.

While the gold rush continued in London, gold mining stocks on the big board sank in reaction to the pledge to place no restrictions on the London gold markets.

Steels, electronics, airlines and tobaccos were mostly higher.

On the American Stock Exchange selected issues were strong as the list posted an advance.

World's Largest Santa Claus?

CLEVELAND (AP)—Donald Piskach may be the world's largest Santa Claus.

The 31-year-old 7-foot-2 Cleveland man, weighs 350 pounds, is much in demand this time of the year playing Santa at benefits and civic organization parties.

Most children don't know how to cope with his awesome size, Piskach said. One tot took a second look at him, he added, and then exclaimed "mommy, there's the real Santa Claus. All the rest are his helpers."

Piskach's costume, like most of his clothes, was made to order. His mother made the suit from eight yards of red flannel material. He wears size 22 boots.

James Stewart Is Commissioned OSU Graduate

James Stewart, 338 Walnut St., was graduated from Ohio State University Friday with a B.S. in journalism.

175 Attend Purina Annual Yule Party

Approximately 175 persons attended the annual Christmas banquet of Ralston Purina Co. Saturday evening in the 4H Grange Building at the Fairgrounds.

A holiday menu featuring turkey and all the trimmings was prepared and served by women of Emmett Chapel Church.

Hosting the event were Larry Varble, plant manager, and his wife, Viola.

Following the dinner service awards were presented to eight employees with an accumulative total of 170 years of service.

A STANDING ovation was given Robert Norpoth when he was presented a 40-year service award. Next in line was Kirk Cupp with 30 years. Clell McNeal and Harold McNeal were each presented 25-year awards; Homer Barr, 20 years; Miss Bonnie Neff, Marion Mark and Milt Alderman were given 10-year awards.

Ted Williams served as master of ceremonies for the after dinner session. John McKenzie gave a progress report to the assembly indicating "1967 was the best year the local mill has ever had."

A Christmas message was delivered by the Rev. John D. pastor of the Nazarene Church. He was installed as the mill's chaplain for next year.

Santa Claus paid a visit at the social event distributing gifts to all in attendance.

Following the banquet a dance was held.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

The question of indemnity also arose. West Virginia owns the Ohio River to the Ohio shoreline and probes were being made to determine responsibility.

West Virginia State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said the state may be facing damage claims of several million dollars.

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

by ArtCarved®

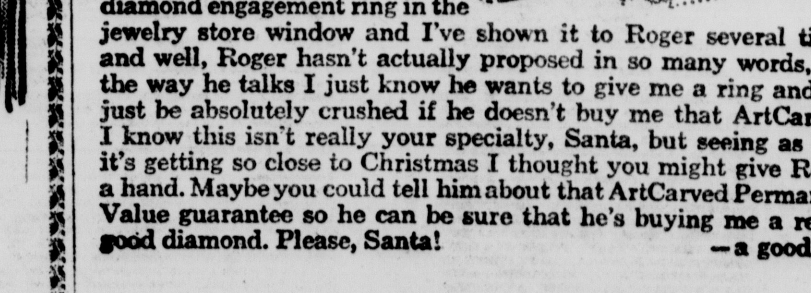

DEAR SANTA...

I've been a very good girl all year, and I hope you'll help me with my one Christmas wish. Remember, I haven't asked you for anything since I was 7. Well anyway, there's this gorgeous ArtCarved diamond engagement ring in the jewelry store window and I've shown it to Roger several times and well, Roger hasn't actually proposed in so many words, but the way he talks I just know he wants to give me a ring and I'll just be absolutely crushed if he doesn't buy me that ArtCarved. I know this isn't really your specialty, Santa, but seeing as how it's getting so close to Christmas I thought you might give Roger a hand. Maybe you could tell him about that ArtCarved Permanent Value guarantee so he can be sure that he's buying me a really good diamond. Please, Santa!

RESCUE OPERATIONS at Point Pleasant, W. Va., after collapse of the Ohio River bridge show an ambulance, cars, rescue workers and a landslide part of the bridge still upright. The bridge crumpled into the river with a rush-hour load of traffic.

Hosting the event were Larry Varble, plant manager, and his wife, Viola.

Following the dinner service awards were presented to eight employees with an accumulative total of 170 years of service.

A STANDING ovation was given Robert Norporth when he was presented a 40-year service award. Next in line was Kirk Cupp with 30 years. Clell McNeal and Harold McNeal were each presented 25-year awards; Homer Barr, 20 years; Miss Bonnie Neff, Marion Mark and Milt Alderman were given 10-year awards.

Ted Williams served as master of ceremonies for the after dinner session. John McKenzie gave a progress report to the assembly indicating "1967 was the best year the local mill has ever had."

A Christmas message was delivered by the Rev. John P. pastor of the Nazarene Church. He was installed as the mill's chaplain for next year.

Santa Claus paid a visit at the social event distributing gifts to all in attendance.

Following the banquet a dance was held.

Perry Trustees Seek Transfer of Funds

The Perry Twp. trustees have petitioned Pickaway County Common Pleas Court for the transfer of $3,000 from the township road and bridge fund to its general fund.

The action was brought by Harley Evans, Delbert Reay and Dan Noble, the trustees of Perry Twp. The transfer required approval of the court.

Reagan Sets Blueprint For 1968

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has promised Californians more frugality in state government during 1968, particularly in programs which consume the most tax dollars—welfare, medical care and education.

The Republican governor presented a blueprint of the second year of his "Creative Society" program in a television and radio broadcast Sunday evening.

He pledged his administration would live within its means without raising taxes again. But the real needs of the state's nearly 20 million citizens won't be sacrificed in the name of cost-cutting and economy, Reagan said.

Despite the savings so far, Reagan said, the state's financial picture "is still grim."

Reagan promised to maintain law and order on the state's 28 university and college campuses and to present solutions to pressing problems of rapid transit, water supplies and pollution.

Money Saved For Teays HS

Teays Valley High School, Ashville, can expect a savings of $2,500 to $3,000 a year in its electric bill, it was announced by South Central Electric Co. Monday.

The reduction in the schools' bill comes as the result of the electric company's policy of extending lower rates to all-electric schools and homes in the area.

Kahn's Workers Set Strike Date

CINCINNATI (AP)—Approximately 750 members of Local 7 of the Meat Cutters Union are slated to walk off their jobs at E. Kahn's Sons Co. at midnight Dec. 31.

Union members voted Sunday by a 407-69 margin to reject the meatpacking company's new contract proposal and also voted to strike Dec. 31 when the old contract runs out.

because the river was closed above and below Point Pleasant.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

The question of indemnity also arose. West Virginia owns the Ohio River to the Ohio shoreline and probes were being made to determine responsibility.

West Virginia State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said the state may be facing damage claims of several million dollars.

DEAR SANTA...

I've been a very good girl all year, and I hope you'll help me with my one Christmas wish. Remember, I haven't asked you for anything since I was 7. Well anyway, there's this gorgeous ArtCarved diamond engagement ring in the jewelry store window and I've shown it to Roger several times and well, Roger hasn't actually proposed in so many words, but the way he talks I just know he wants to give me a ring and I'll just be absolutely crushed if he doesn't buy me that ArtCarved. I know this isn't really your specialty, Santa, but seeing as how it's getting so close to Christmas I thought you might give Roger a hand. Maybe you could tell him about that ArtCarved Permanent Value guarantee so he can be sure that he's buying me a really good diamond. Please, Santa!

More Police Manpower

The New York Patrolmen's Benevolent Association insists the department needs 5,000 more policemen to make the streets of the city safe. This would raise payroll costs by $50 million, which the city doesn't have.

Moreover, the PBA spokesmen do not suggest where all these new men could be found, a question of considerable relevance in view of policemen recruitment difficulties most big cities have.

An alarming increase in crimes of violence has brought widespread public demand for more policemen in many cities at a time when, for many reasons, police work is becoming increasingly unattractive to able young men. However, a mere increase in numbers of policemen would not provide a complete solution. Better use must also be made of police manpower.

As some other cities have already done, New York has begun to make more men available for street patrol by replacing uniformed desk men with civilian employees. And these transfers are only a first step toward ending the waste of trained manpower.

Another step is suggested by the experiment begun by Los Angeles, which is using civilians for traffic duty. They will have distinctive uniforms and will be authorized to issue summonses but not to make arrests.

Traffic control does not require the high physical standards or training needed for crime control.

Few departments have done much about the renovations suggested by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

One of its recommendations calls for a new table of police organization that would permit recruits to enter at three different levels of competence and education, thereby making available a wider variety of special skills. The top tier would be a scientifically trained corps of crime investigators, resourceful enough to deal with the underworld.

Strengthening the forces of public safety must begin in the police departments, but they cannot do it alone. It will also require community cooperation, beginning with greater respect for the law and greater moral support for enforcement agencies.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans wrote about 17 billion checks this year, an amount bankers seriously believe is close to the maximum that can be handled efficiently.

That, however, is only the beginning of the problem. It gets worse. Americans add another billion checks to that total each year, threatening to inundate the bill payment system in a flood of signatures.

How long can it go on? Nobody dares to guess, but some banking authorities feel the system of using checks is no more up to date than the Post Office. A vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, John Clarke, says the system originated as an improvisation and survives because of inertia.

If, as feared, this avalanche of paper does clog the arteries of commerce, alternatives must be ready. And, as has been publicized widely, the soundest alternative may be to substitute electronics for paper.

Instead of the signatured paper being offered in payment, an electronic computer would be instructed to deduct a sum from the credit account of the purchaser and added to the account of the seller.

Such a system has been referred to as the checkless society, a term that becomes less popular as the advent of a new method of paying bills approaches. Clarke is among those seriously studying this new method.

In his view, as described at a recent credit conference here, the less-check society—where might never have a checkless society, he feels—is now becoming technologically possible. To be implemented, however, it must be made attractive and rewarding to its users.

The reward, as he sees it, could be a discount to consumers who use the instant pay system. Such discounts for early payment already exist in the commercial world. The criterion is there.

The retailer would receive immediate use of the funds in place of waiting for the check to be deposited. He would save on bookkeeping costs. He would save on paper work. He would save time and energy.

The mechanics of the system might appear complex, but only because there is nothing with which to compare it. Basically, it would involve the use of high-speed communications wires and electronic computers.

These computers would be located throughout the country and filled with data on credit records, bank balances and other essential information regarding personal and business finance. In effect they would be utilities.

From the utilities would run communications lines to electronic devices at retail stores, banks, other commercial outlets and even private homes. And from these sites instructions would go to the computer to debit one account and credit another.

The transfer would merely be a bookkeeping one. No check or money would change hands. As a result, fewer checks would be used and the strain on banks would be relieved.

Much still needs to be done, of course, before the system could be tried.

Foolproof methods of identification must be devised. Hardware must be developed to activate the computers. Legal safeguards against access to personal information must be developed.

And, finally, who would run the computer utilities—the public or private sector?

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Truman Capote's short story, "Among the Paths to Eden" was translated Sunday night into a poignant, sometimes painful, television vignette. The subject was empty lives and loneliness.

It was the story of a middle-aged, plain spinster desperately trying to find a husband, and it was beautifully acted by a pair of skilled, sensitive performers. The woman's hunting ground was a cemetery, because one of her married friends had told her that there were "always widowers walking around."

The ABC story opened with the woman standing among mourners at an open grave, awkwardly making conversation with men. Soon she wandered on to find a man planting flowers at his dead wife's grave. After making some tentative advances, she learned he was on the verge of remarrying—and moved on quickly.

Eventually she encountered another man putting some flowers on his wife's grave. Largely through her insistence, they struck up a conversation.

In the course of the conversation, with her desperate efforts to attract him, all of her lonely, barren life revealed itself and, more reluctantly, so did his. There was one curious scene where, in her eagerness to impress him, she perched on a corner of his wife's headstone and gave him her impression of Helen Morgan singing a blues song. At the end, he gently rebuffed her, and at the end, she was following another man, who might be a widower, to another part of the graveyard.

Maureen Stapleton played the drab, shy spinster with insight and with spurts of inept boldness that chilled the spectator. Martin Balsam, as the widower, brought to the role just the right touches of sympathy and gentleness, even when he was brushing her off.

"PBL," the experimental current events series seen Sunday nights on educational stations, had a fiery confrontation as Edward P. Morgan conducted—or tried to conduct—a dialogue on the subject of police and their relationship to minority groups. It sometimes turned into a shouting match. Tempers flared, and one Negro clergyman in Detroit became so enraged that he snatched off his ear phones and declared as far as he was concerned, the session was over.

Police officers and Negro leaders talked from Detroit, Atlanta, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Newark, and there were also a number of university sociologists. It was an ambitious attempt to reflect all sorts of viewpoints, but there were so many participants that Morgan had his problems keeping the program from degenerating into a shouting match every few minutes.

All three networks will broadcast "A Conversation with the President" Tuesday night, 10-11 EST. Lyndon B. Johnson will be interviewed by three reporters, one from each network.

ABC, therefore, will postpone its Christmas edition of "Hollywood Palace" scheduled originally for that hour, until Wednesday night at 7:30 EST.

Recommended tonight: "At The Drop of Another Hat," CBS, 10-11 EST, with satirists Michael Flanders and Donald Swann in an adaptation of their Broadway hit.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SCIENTIFIC JOURNAL quoted an oceanographer's estimate that if the earth was entirely flattened, the sea would be two miles deep over the entire globe's surface.

The paragraph caught the eye of an Oklahoma editor who reprinted it in his daily with this addition: "If any varmint is caught flattening the earth, turn him over to the sheriff at once. A whole lot of us fellers here in Oklahoma can't swim!"

The mother of a family of twelve in Santa Clara dresses all the kids alike. "When we had only four," she explains, "I dressed them alike so we wouldn't lose any. Now that we have twelve, I dress them alike so we won't pick up any that don't belong to us."

PUNSTERS ON PARADE:
1. A publisher who had lost his shirt sponsoring a succession of far-out novels complained, "I'm suffering heavily from new-writers."
2. The late Dorothy Parker put her finger on one thing wrong with French literature when she remarked, "The poet Verlaine's trouble was that he was always chasing Rimbauds."
3. The great naturalist Luther Burbank's success came as no surprise to his early teachers. They all predicted he would sack seed.
4. The old lady in the shoe had no trouble keeping her numerous kids in line. She knew which side her brood should be battered on.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are doctors the only people who are allowed to give an anesthesia in a hospital.

The science of anesthesiology has in the past 25 years expanded tremendously. Today the anesthetist is a specialist who is second only to the surgeon during every phase of an operation.

The anesthesiologist, as he prefers to be called, is no longer a person who mixes gases, puts the patient to sleep and stays bored for the rest of the surgery. He now plays an active role in the entire operation, bringing safety to it during every moment it transpires.

If ever a problem of safety arises with any patient he has the final say as to whether the patient, at that time, should be subjected to any surgery if he considers the anesthesia to be dangerous.

Dr. Seamus Lynch, chief of the department of anesthesiology at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital in New York City, outlined to me the rigorous training necessary to produce a full-fledged anesthetist. Under the strictest supervision his younger doctors and nurses are trained in every routine and emergency procedure.

Many nurses, after graduation, take a period of arduous study and learn all the technical aspects of anesthesia. Even when they are completely trained, supervising doctors are constantly in attendance to insure the greatest safety.

Doctors and nurses in the field of anesthesiology are also trained to understand the emotions of patients before and after operations. They offer their great support by their psychological insight and by their assurance that every safety device is now part of their most important contribution to all surgery.

Following an injury there any danger to taking a tetanus shot?

Can one man beat a climate of opinion?

Richard Cornuelle, who started talking about "the independent sector" (meaning voluntary non-profit organizations) in an effort to undercut Professor John Kenneth Galbraith's polarization of the "public" and "private" sectors, still gives it a good try. After publishing his exciting book, "Reclaiming the American Dream," Dick Cornuelle took a job with the National Association of Manufacturers with a mission to work up a Center for Independent Action. The idea was to poke, prod, lead or inspire businessmen to take on some of the hard-core social problems that government, for all its mammoth appropriations, never seems able to crack. Dick has been out of his New York City office more than he has been in it for the past year; he is one of those fellows who thrives on living out of a suitcase. And now, after a lot of groundwork, he seems to be getting somewhere.

Coming back from one of his recent forays he reports that business is making a real attempt to hire and train hard-core cases from the slums. The Ford Motor Company has taken on 1,000 in Detroit, a first installment on its promise to hire and teach 6,500 people who would not ordinarily qualify for jobs. The General Electric Company has accepted more than 3,000 hard-core applicants for production-line work in Chicago, giving them both on-the-job training and evening high school make-up classes. Rochester Jobs, Inc., in upstate New York, has placed five hundred in five months. The most exciting spot visited by Dick Cornuelle was his old home state of Indiana, where the Legislature has set up a committee to study the potential of Indiana's voluntary organizations. In Indianapolis the Center for Independent Action is sponsoring a test program of remodeling run-down housing units in an effort to provide decent shelter at poverty-level rent prices. Banks are providing privately insured mortgages for the program.

Talking with Dick Cornuelle, one can get quite excited about the prospects for voluntary solution of urban troubles. But then one picks up a gloomy report from the National Federation of Independent Business, which shows that "net new job creation" is very small. In October, small business hirings and firings were almost equal. The new minimum wage law is increasingly the villain in the picture. Forty-two per cent of the job dismissals in October were due to the inability of small companies to pay more for marginal and submarginal workers. This represented a sizeable jump from thirty per cent in the third quarter of the year, twenty-one per cent in the second quarter, and seventeen in the first quarter. A projection of figures for the full year indicates that more than a million people will have been thrown out of work by the law in 1967. When the next compulsory boost in minimal pay goes into effect on February 1, 1968, there will presumably be more lay-offs.

A vegetable packer in Dick Cornuelle's Indiana says he is "very much disturbed over the next rise to $1.60 per hour. The $1.40 for high school boys, school drop-outs and other people with very little education is more in line for our work. With the hospitalization and uniforms we furnish, we frankly believe we shall have to raise our prices too much to repack consumer size packages of potatoes and onions for the supermarkets."

So the faster Dick Cornuelle runs in his efforts to solve the hardcore unemployment problem by recourse to voluntary operations, the tougher government makes it for him. If the government would only get off the employers' backs, the National Federation of Independent Business would not be reporting that the "Hardest impact" of job attrition "continues to show up in the southern states." Says the Federation statistician: "In the South Atlantic states fifty-three per cent report firings due to the minimum wage law, and in the East South Central fifty-eight per cent, and in the West South Central forty-eight per cent."

Naturally, the heavy job attrition in the South contributes to the migration of Negroes into the congested central cities of the North. There will be more riots next summer — and even with the dearest sort of prodding by Dick Cornuelle, Ford and General Electric won't be able to hire enough people fast enough to make any perceptible difference.

According to Boyle

By JERRY BUCK (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — The inevitable question asked Gerald Green is, how do you combine the careers of television producer and novelist?

Green's sad face draws into a slight smile as he says, "It isn't as dramatic as people think. The two careers don't overlap. I take time off to write."

"When I was younger I used to work weekends intensely and one night a week," he said. "I wrote 'The Last Angry Man' while working on the 'Today' show. I couldn't do that again."

Nevertheless, the latest efforts from both careers are about to make their bows just weeks apart. His newest book, his eighth, is "To Brooklyn With Love," the January Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and "American Profile: The Forgotten Peninsula," a documentary on Baja California with Joseph Wood Krutch, was shown on the NRT television network Friday, Dec. 8.

The book tells the story of 12-year-old Albert Abrams, the son of a neighborhood doctor, as he grows up in the Brownsville slums of Brooklyn. Like several of Green's other books, it is partly autobiographical.

Green, a balding, husky six-footer wearing black suspenders decorated with fishing flies, said he now limits himself to two television documentaries a year and devotes the rest of his time to writing.

Comparing the two fields, he said, "I suppose a book is completely your own. Compared to any artistic expression it's the most satisfying. But writing is nerve-racking and lonely. I bleed a lot. Television is more fun and I find it relaxing." His first book was "His Majesty O'Keefe," a biography of a self-proclaimed king of a South Sea island. "I wrote that with Larry Klingman when we both worked the overnight shift at the International News Service," he said.

"We'd come in a few hours early and write until it was time to start work. It was made into a movie with Burt Lancaster and it's still around on the late, late show."

A movie also was made of "The Last Angry Man," a fictionalized story about his father—a Brooklyn neighborhood doc-

Pickaway Dairy set a record in 1942 business. Business was better that year than at any time in the history of the association, according to Russell Palm, manager of the cooperative. The dairy co-op did a gross business of three-quarters of a million dollars.

Silex Company of Hartford, Conn., leased the Goeller broom factory building, Clinton St. The highly rated company planned assembly of the glass coffee makers soon after Jan. 1. A two-year lease was signed on the building.

Durward Dowden, Wayne Twp., was named chairman of the Pickaway County Selective Service board to succeed Emmitt L. Crist, then a captain in the army.

J. Wallace Crist, operator of the Crist department store, Court and Main St., announced that he planned to close out the store's business after the first of the year. Labor conditions caused by government demands and the ability in obtaining experienced sales people plus merchandise becoming more difficult to obtain were the reasons given for closing the store until the end of the war.

Scores of persons from Kansas, Nebraska and Texas, all employees of the Emergency Pipe Line, Inc., started to move into the Circleville area. The pipe line company was constructing an oil line between Texas and New York and Philadelphia. The city was pressed to provide lodging for the workmen and their families for an anticipated six months.

Leon Sims, star freshman forward on Coach Roy Black's cage team, clinched a starting position when in the game with Williamsport he looped 13 buckets through the hoop from every angle of the court and added three free throws for a count of 29 points.

Within a 24 hour period the temperature dropped 25 degrees from a cold 13 to a frigid 12 below zero.

200 couples attended the Kiwanis Club holiday dance held in Memorial Hall. Uniforms of men in service, colorful evening gowns and decorations both seasonal and patriotic, made the event an outstanding one for the holidays. Luther Bower, D. H. Marcy and Hal Dean headed the club dance committee.

The 25th anniversary of the completion of the 1,422 Alcan Highway—a World War II construction feat—has just been observed. That's not much of a stretch in time—but certainly is in miles!

The Alcan was built by some 16,000 men in less than nine months. Now, that's what we call real get-togetherness!

To the sound of drums and bagpipes, 60 hikers climbed to the peak of Mount Tamapais in California. That's striking a high note!

To celebrate the birth of his daughter, King Hassan of Morocco pardoned 3,000 prisoners. Got to hand it to that brand-new little lady—she certainly won instant popularity!

More Police Manpower

The New York Patrolmen's Benevolent Association insists the department needs 5,000 more policemen to make the streets of the city safe. This would raise payroll costs by $50 million, which the city doesn't have.

Moreover, the PBA spokesmen do not suggest where all these new men could be found, a question of considerable relevance in view of policemen recruitment difficulties most big cities have.

An alarming increase in crimes of violence has brought widespread public demand for more policemen in many cities at a time when, for many reasons, police work is becoming increasingly unattractive to able young men. However, a mere increase in numbers of policemen would not provide a complete solution. Better use must also be made of police manpower.

As some other cities have already done, New York has begun to make more men available for street patrol by replacing uniformed desk men with civilian employees. And these transfers are only a first step toward ending the waste of trained manpower.

Another step is suggested by the experiment begun by Los Angeles, which is using civilians for traffic duty. They will have distinctive uniforms and will be authorized to issue summonses but not to make arrests.

Traffic control does not require the high physical standards or training needed for crime control.

Few departments have done much about the renovations suggested by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

One of its recommendations calls for a new table of police organization that would permit recruits to enter at three different levels of competence and education, thereby making available a wider variety of special skills. The top tier would be a scientifically trained corps of crime investigators, resourceful enough to deal with the underworld.

Strengthening the forces of public safety must begin in the police departments, but they cannot do it alone. It will also require community cooperation, beginning with greater respect for the law and greater moral support for enforcement agencies.

A SCIENTIFIC JOURNAL quoted an oceanographer's estimate that if the earth was entirely flattened, the sea would be two miles deep over the entire globe's surface.

The paragraph caught the eye of an Oklahoma editor who reprinted it in his daily with this addition: "If any varmint is caught flattening the earth, turn him over to the sheriff at once. A whole lot of us fellows here in Oklahoma can't swim!"

The mother of a family of twelve in Santa Clara dresses all the kids alike. "When we had only four," she explains, "I dressed them alike so we wouldn't lose any. Now that we have twelve, I dress them alike so we won't pick up any that don't belong to us."

FUNSTERS ON PARADE:

1. A publisher who had lost his shirt sponsoring a succession of far-out novels complained, "I'm suffering heavily from new-writers."
2. The late Dorothy Parker put her finger on one thing wrong with French literature when she remarked, "The poet Verlaine's trouble was that he was always chasing Rimbaud."
3. The great naturalist Luther Burbank's success came as no surprise to his early teachers. They all predicted he would sack seed.
4. The old lady in the shoe had no trouble keeping her numerous kids in line. She knew which side her brood should be battered on.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are doctors the only people who are allowed to give an anesthesia in a hospital.

The science of anesthesiology has in the past 25 years expanded tremendously. To day the anesthetist is a specialist who is second only to the surgeon during every phase of an operation.

The anesthetologist, as he prefers to be called, is no longer a person who mixes gases, puts the patient to sleep and stays bored for the rest of the surgery. He now plays an active role in the entire operation, bringing safety to it during every moment it transpires.

If ever a problem of safety arises with any patient he has the final say as to whether the patient, at that time, should be subjected to any surgery if he considers the anesthesia to be dangerous.

Dr. Seamus Lynch, chief of the department of anesthesiology at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital in New York City, outlined to me the rigorous training necessary to produce a full-fledged anesthetist. Under the strictest supervision his younger doctors and nurses are trained in every routine and emergency procedure.

Many nurses, after graduation, take a period of arduous study and learn all the technical aspects of anesthesia. Even when they are completely trained, supervising doctors are constantly in attendance to insure the greatest safety.

Doctors and nurses in the field of anesthesiology are also trained to understand the emotions of patients before and after operations. They offer their great support by their psychological insight and by their assurance that every safety device is now part of their most important contribution to all surgery.

Solution of Urban Troubles

Can one man beat a climate of opinion?

Richard Cornuelle, who started talking about "the independent sector" (meaning voluntary non-profit organizations) in an effort to undercut Professor John Kenneth Galbraith's polarization of the "public" and "private" sectors, still gives it a good try. After publishing his exciting book, "Reclaiming the American Dream," Dick Cornuelle took a job with the National Association of Manufacturers with a mission to work up a Center for Independent Action. The idea was to poke, prod, lead or inspire businessmen to take on some of the hard-core social problems that government, for all its mammoth appropriations, never seems able to crack. Dick has been out of his New York City office more than he has been in it for the past year; he is one of those fellows who thrives on living out of a suitcase. And now, after a lot of groundwork, he seems to be getting somewhere.

Coming back from one of his recent forays he reports that business is making a real attempt to hire and train hard-core cases from the slums. The Ford Motor Company has taken on 1,000 in Detroit, a first installment on its promise to hire and teach 6,500 people who would not ordinarily qualify for jobs. The General Electric Company has accepted more than 3,000 hard-core applicants for production-line work in Chicago, giving them both on-the-job training and evening high school make-up classes. Rochester Jobs, Inc., in upstate New York, has placed five hundred in five months. The most exciting spot visited by Dick Cornuelle was his old home state of Indiana, where the Legislature has set up a committee to study the potential of Indiana's voluntary organizations. In Indianapolis the Center for Independent Action is sponsoring a test program of remodeling run-down housing units in an effort to provide decent shelter at poverty-level rent prices. Banks are providing privately insured mortgages for the program.

Talking with Dick Cornuelle, one can get quite excited about the prospects for voluntary solution of urban troubles. But then one picks up a gloomy report from the National Federation of Independent Business, which shows that "net new job creation" is very small. In October, small business hirings and firings were almost equal. The new minimum wage law is increasingly the villain in the picture. Forty-two per cent of the job dismissals in October were due to the inability of small companies to pay more for marginal and submarginal workers. This represented a sizeable jump from thirty per cent in the third quarter of the year, twenty-one per cent in the second quarter, and seventeen in the first quarter. A projection of figures for the full year indicates that more than a million people will have been thrown out of work by the law in 1967. When the next compulsory boost in minimal pay goes into effect on February 1, 1968, there will presumably be more lay-offs.

A vegetable packer in Dick Cornuelle's Indiana says he is "very much disturbed over the next rise to $1.60 per hour. The $1.40 for high school boys, school drop-outs and other people with very little education is more in line for our work. With the hospitalization and uniforms we furnish, we frankly believe we shall have to raise our prices too much to repack consumer size packages of potatoes and onions for the supermarkets."

So the faster Dick Cornuelle runs in his efforts to solve the hardcore unemployment problem by recourse to voluntary operations, the tougher government makes it for him. If the government would only get off the employers' backs, the National Federation of Independent Business would not be reporting that the "Hardest impact" of job attrition "continues to show up in the southern states." Says the Federation statistician: "In the South Atlantic states fifty-three per cent report firings due to the minimum wage law, and in the East South Central fifty-eight per cent, and in the West South Central forty-eight per cent."

Naturally, the heavy job attrition in the South contributes to the migration of Negroes into the congested central cities of the North. There will be more riots next summer — and even with the dearest sort of prodding by Dick Cornuelle, Ford and General Electric won't be able to hire enough people fast enough to make any perceptible difference.

According to Boyle

By JERRY BUCK (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — The inevitable question asked Gerald Green is, how do you combine the careers of television producer and novelist?

Green's sad face draws into a slight smile as he says, "It isn't as dramatic as people think. The two careers don't overlap. I take time off to write."

"When I was younger I used to work weekends intensely and one night a week," he said. "I wrote 'The Last Angry Man' while working on the 'Today' show. I couldn't do that again."

Nevertheless, the latest efforts from both careers are about to make their bows just weeks apart.

His newest book, his eighth, is "To Brooklyn With Love," the January Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and "American Profile: The Forgotten Peninsula," a documentary on Baja California with Joseph Wood Krutch, was shown on the NBC television network Friday, Dec. 8.

The book tells the story of 12-year-old Albert Abrams, the son of a neighborhood doctor, as he grows up in the Brownsville slums of Brooklyn. Like several of Green's other books, it is partly autobiographical.

Green, a balding, husky six-footer wearing black suspenders decorated with fishing flies, said he now limits himself to two television documentaries a year and devotes the rest of his time to writing.

Comparing the two fields, he said, "I suppose a book is completely your own. Compared to any artistic expression it's the most satisfying. But writing is nerve-racking and lonely. I bleed a lot. Television is more fun and I find it relaxing."

His first book was "His Majesty O'Keefe," a biography of a self-proclaimed king of a South Sea island. "I wrote that with Larry Klingman when we both worked the overnight shift at the International News Service," he said.

"We'd come in a few hours early and write until it was time to start work. It was made into a movie with Burt Lancaster and it's still around on the late show."

A movie also was made of "The Last Angry Man," a fictionalized story about his father — a Brooklyn neighborhood doctor.

Labor conditions caused by government demands and the ability in obtaining experienced sales people plus merchandise becoming more difficult to obtain were the reasons given for closing the store . . . until the end of the war.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Truman Capote's short story, "Among the Paths to Eden" was translated Sunday night into a poignant, sometimes painful, television vignette. The subject was empty lives and loneliness.

It was the story of a middle-aged, plain spinster desperately trying to find a husband, and it was beautifully acted by a pair of skilled, sensitive performers. The woman's hunting ground was a cemetery, because one of her married friends had told her that there were "always widows walking around."

The ABC story opened with the woman standing among mourners at an open grave, awkwardly making conversation with men. Soon she wandered on to find a man planting flowers at his dead wife's grave. After making some tentative advances, she learned he was on the verge of remarrying—and moved on quickly.

Eventually she encountered another man putting some flowers on his wife's grave. Largely through her insistence, they struck up a conversation.

In the course of the conversation, with her desperate efforts to attract him, all of her lonely, barren life revealed itself and, more reluctantly, so did his. There was one curious scene where, in her eagerness to impress him, she perched on a corner of his wife's headstone and gave him her impression of Helen Morgan singing a blues song. At the end, he gently rebuffed her, and at the end, she was following another man, who might be a widower, to another part of the graveyard.

Maureen Stapleton played the drab, shy spinster with insight and with spurts of inept boldness that chilled the spectator. Martin Balsam, as the widower, brought to the role just the right touches of sympathy and gentleness, even when he was brushing her off.

"PBL," the experimental current events series seen Sunday nights on educational stations, had a fiery confrontation as Edward P. Morgan conducted—or tried to conduct—a dialogue on the subject of police and their relationship to minority groups. It sometimes turned into a shouting match. Tempers flared, and one Negro clergyman in Detroit became so enraged that he snatched off his ear phones and declared as far as he was concerned, the session was over.

Police officers and Negro leaders talked from Detroit, Atlanta, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Newark, and there were also a number of university sociologists. It was an ambitious attempt to reflect all sorts of viewpoints, but there were so many participants that Morgan had his problems keeping the program from degenerating into a shouting match every few minutes.

All three networks will broadcast "A Conversation with the President" Tuesday night, 10-11 EST. Lyndon B. Johnson will be interviewed by three reporters, one from each network.

ABC, therefore, will postpone its Christmas edition of "Hollywood Palace" scheduled originally for that hour, until Wednesday night at 7:30 EST.

Recommended tonight: "At The Drop of Another Hat," CBS, 10-11 EST, with satirists Michael Flanders and Donald Swann in an adaptation of their Broadway hit.

Air Safety Meeting Set For Feb. 4

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly a dozen air transportation experts will participate in an air safety conference in Cincinnati Feb. 4 dealing with the entire field of flight security.

Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, cosponsor of the conference with Rep. Donald C. Clancy, R-Ohio, said he feels the meeting will bring a clearer understanding of flight safety problems.

He added that the specific circumstances surrounding recent air crashes in the Cincinnati area won't be re-examined, but the conference "might help develop sound attitudes on the part of officials and the public generally."

The conference will consider such problems as air traffic control, airport construction and modernization, flight crew training and all weather flying, and uniform standards for airport certification.

"We believe the recent accidents (at Greater Cincinnati Airport) have spotlighted the entire question of air safety," but they won't be re-examined, Taft said.

Cop, Singer Are Shot

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland singer was killed and a policeman was wounded in separate shooting incidents over the weekend.

King George Scott, 29, of Cleveland, a member of a singing group known as "The Hesitations," was killed early Sunday.

Patrolman Melvin G. Zapo was shot in the left foot while he and his partner were arresting a female impersonator on the East Side Saturday night.

Scott was shot in the head while he sat with his wife, Sandra, 25, and another member of the singing group, in a car parked in the 3600 block of East 147th Street.

Police said they were told that Scott and the other singer were handling a .38-caliber German Derringer when the gun fired accidentally.

Distributive Education Has Four Basic Purposes

By FRITZ JACOBS
City School Superintendent

Distributive Education identifies a program of instruction offered through the public schools and sometimes post secondary and technical institutions of Ohio and the nation.

The program has four basic purposes: (1) to offer instruction to marketing and distribution, (2) to aid in improving the techniques of distribution and customer service, (3) to develop an understanding of social, civic and economic responsibilities of those engaged in distribution in the free competitive society, (4) to provide mid-management level training in the post secondary and technical programs for those engaged in marketing distribution.

The Distributive Education program, commonly referred to as DE, is offered at Circleville High School. This is the fourth year that the DE program has been included in the high school curriculum at Circleville and it is the only approved education program in Pickaway County.

The initial year found 13 Senior students enrolling in a double class period program, which the State Department of Education refers to as "Plan B" program. This year the program operates under a "Plan C" program of study which is a two year program carried on by the students during their Junior and Senior years.

If the interest is evident from the student to study Distributive Education they must start at the beginning of their junior year of school. It is impossible for students to double up and take both Distributive Education I and Distributive Education II concurrently their Senior year as was possible in past years.

At present 54 Juniors selected

Distributive Education I and 22 Seniors are selected to continue in the Distributive Education program. The State Department of Distributive Education indicates that CHS presently has the largest Distributive Education enrollment of any high school in the State with just one teacher coordinator. It is the hope of the school system that each of the students will have as his or her career goal work in one of the fields of marketing, merchandising or management. The Distributive Education program at Circleville High School is referred to as people-centered. It has marketing as its core discipline. Distributive Education also utilizes other subjects such as social sciences, accounting and English and may rely on the development of a technology. The technology is a special skill or knowledge needed to perform in an occupational area in addition to knowledge of distribution, that is auto mechanics for garage ownership, color harmony for advertising, window display building, or barbering skill for barbershop owner. All Juniors who enroll in Distributive Education also study English, American History and at least one elective. It is preferred that students have some typing if they did not have it during their sophomore year, bookkeeping or a general mathematics course.

In the Distributive Education class seven major areas of study are emphasized. These areas are based upon an analysis of the skills, attitudes and attributes necessary for success in distribution. Included are the areas of personnel, selling product information, sales promotion, merchandising, business mathematics, use of the cash register, making change, in applying for and securing a job.

During the Senior year the students participate in a cooperative program. "Cooperative" is a program of instruction in which the Distributive Education students attend school in the morning and in the afternoon reports for work and more training at the various training stations which are the stores and service businesses in Circleville. To maintain a successful cooperative program a definite and honest communication among the students, the parents, the school, the business sponsor and the teacher coordinator is necessary.

"The Distributive Education program is a strong and vital factor in our economy" wrote an outstanding national business man — J. C. Penney. The same businessman stated that Distributive Education is a healthy, growing American venture. Its success so far has been outstanding. The cooperation of the local business owners and managers has been very helpful in assisting the young people and school officials to provide this type of program for need this avenue of working with educators and students to attract qualified young people to careers in distribution.

The Distributive Education program, commonly referred to as DE, is offered at Circleville High School. This is the fourth year that the DE program has been included in the high school curriculum at Circleville and it is the only approved education program in Pickaway County.

The initial year found 13 Senior students enrolling in a double class period program, which the State Department of Education refers to as "Plan B" program. This year the program operates under a "Plan C" program of study which is a two year program carried on by the students during their Junior and Senior years.

If the interest is evident from the student to study Distributive Education they must start at the beginning of their junior year of school. It is impossible for students to double up and take both Distributive Education I and Distributive Education II concurrently their Senior year as was possible in past years.

At present 54 Juniors selected

Distributive Education I and 22 Seniors are selected to continue in the Distributive Education program. The State Department of Distributive Education indicates that CHS presently has the largest Distributive Education enrollment of any high school in the State with just one teacher coordinator. It is the hope of the school system that each of the students will have as his or her career goal work in one of the fields of marketing, merchandising or management.

The Distributive Education program at Circleville High School is referred to as people-centered. It has marketing as its core discipline. Distributive Education also utilizes other subjects such as social sciences, accounting and English and may Distributive Education also study English, American History and at least one elective. It is preferred that students have some typing if they did not have it during their sophomore year, bookkeeping or a general mathematics course.

In the Distributive Education class seven major areas of study are emphasized. These areas are based upon an analysis of the skills, attitudes and attributes necessary for success in distribution. Included are the areas of personnel, selling product information, sales promotion, merchandising, business mathematics, use of the cash register, making change, in applying for and securing a job.

During the Senior year the students participate in a cooperative program. "Cooperative" is a program of instruction in which the Distributive Education students attend school in the morning and in the afternoon reports for work and more training at the various training stations which are the stores and service businesses in Circleville. To maintain a successful cooperative program a definite and honest communication among the students, the parents, the school, the business sponsor and the teacher coordinator is necessary.

"The Distributive Education program is a strong and vital factor in our economy" wrote an outstanding national business man — J. C. Penney. The same businessman stated that Distributive Education is a healthy, growing American venture. It's success so far has been outstanding. The cooperation of the local business owners and managers has been very helpful in assisting the young people and school officials to provide this type of program for

Vet Committee

MRS. C. W. CROMLEY

Mrs. Curtis W. Cromley, wife of an Ashville veterinarian, has been elected to the membership promotion committee of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Veterinary Medical Association. The action took place at the group's recent convention in Dallas. The oldest professional women's auxiliary in the nation, the organization has about 8,200 veterinarians' wives as members.

In her new position, Mrs. Cromley will assist in the promotion and encouragement of membership in the national group.

Long active in the affairs of the local and state veterinary auxiliary groups, Mrs. Cromley has served as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of the Auxiliary to the Ohio State Veterinary Medical Association.

A leader in the civic affairs of her community, she is a member of the Pickaway Plains chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and helped organize the Garden Club some 25 years ago. She is also a member and past officer of the Women's Civic Club of Ashville.

Dr. and Mrs. Cromley live at 250 East Main Street, in Ashville.

Kitchen Products Provide
Numerous Gift Ideas

If your Christmas list—and your desire to expand it still further—is limited by your allowance, here's a way to give to all you'd like to give.

It begins with a pair of kitchen staples on your shelf—baking soda and cornstarch.

Cooked Clay: What you do is to cook up these two ingredients into a clay that hardens to a ceramic-like finish. And then apply your imagination to making odd bits of jewelry for your friends, picture frames for some relatives, as well as sets of buttons that will give a counter look to anyone's cardigan.

Here is the method. Mix together thoroughly with a fork: 1 cup baking soda and 2 cups (1-pound package) cornstarch. Add 1 1/4 cups cold water. Mix until thoroughly smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, and cook a minute longer or until the mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes. Transfer mixture to a plate, cover with a damp paper towel until cool enough to knead. Then start modeling.

Gem Directions: To make jewelry, roll clay on waxed paper to 1/2-inch thickness. Or cut clay into circles, stars, and triangles with cookie cutters for earrings, pins and "mod" medallions, which also make great tree ornaments. Roll lightly to distort shape. For bas-relief effect, cut smaller shapes with a pie cutter or bottle caps or mold by hand. Moisten and press into larger pieces.

Insert a small loop of wire into the edge. On this you will be able to thread a medallion chain or earring attachments. Put molded clay on a rack in warm (350 degrees F.) turned-off oven for a few minutes to harden. Paint hardened clay with tempora or water colors. Finish by dipping pieces into clear shellac, spraying with clear plastic, or brushing on clear nail polish. Mount a pin on the back with white glue.

To make bracelets and rings, cut rolled out clay into strip of desired width, using a knife and ruler. The length of strip depends on the circumference of wrist or finger. Moisten both ends and press together to form a firm bond. Add desired embellishments.

Another Possibility: You can also make buttons. Cut the rolled out clay with bottle cap or tiny cookie cutters. Decorate to suit. Tunnel two holes with a paper clip; let dry, then paint or spray or shellac.

Perhaps you want to fashion a frame for Mom's favorite snapshot of you. Press the clay into a 6-inch fluted-edged paper plate. Roll to smooth it out. With any circular object you can find, such as an empty fruit can or ash tray that fits the outer circumference of your picture, cut circle of clay from center of plate. Remove the circle. Gently ease the clay frame from plate, bottom side up, onto waxed paper. When the frame has hardened, gild it with gold paint. With white glue, mount the frame over snapshot. See what a snap it is!

Dinner, Program

Members and families of the WWSW and EUB Men of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church met for a combined carry-in supper and Christmas program Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leoy Thomas were leaders of the Christmas program held in the service center.

Miss Gladys Noggle, vice president of WWSW, presented opening devotions.

The story "Lights of Christmas" was read by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dumm with Lucille Kirkwood as soloist and Mrs. James Pierce, pianist.

Scripture was read pertaining to the Christmas story. A large candle was lit, representing Christ, whose coming to the earth as the great light of the world celebrated at Christmas.

A candle of Joy was lit from the large candle representing the good tidings of great joy which the angel proclaimed.

A candle of peace represented the true light of peace, that inner peace of mind and soul. The candle of faith is the Christian message. The candle of love is for sharing.

The spirit of these candles is to illumine hearts and minds at this Holy Season of the year and glow brightly through each day of the new year. The meeting was closed by the group singing "O, Come, All Ye Faithful." Rev. H. Eugene Flowers presented the benediction.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The U.S. Small Business Administration has been asked to look into the economic impact the U.S. 35 bridge calamity of Friday has had on this community.

City Councilman Jack Fowler said in a special council meeting Sunday that retail sales were off 65 per cent Saturday. It was to have been the town's biggest Christmas shopping day of the season.

During the meeting council decided to ask Gov. Hulett Smith to seek federal economic assistance from the President.

Besides the loss in Christmas shopping business, Fowler declared the collapse of the bridge across the Ohio River has caused a serious drop in service station and restaurant business.

Brethren Church
Women's Group
Meeting Held

The basement of the Church of the Brethren was decorated in the Christmas theme for the Tuesday meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the church.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Paul Walters, president, by reading the second chapter of Luke. She also presented a reading pertaining to Christmas. Mrs. Emma Essick led the group in prayer.

Phyllis Walters, Mary Davis, Barbara Donahue and Frances Cupp sang "Silent Night."

The group will give a Christmas basket to a family in need and members are reminded to bring food for the project.

Members voted to make a contribution to the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund, Lewis Myers at the Brethren Home, and to the district board of worldwide missions.

Christmas carols were sung by the 20 members present, followed with a gift exchange. The next meeting will be Jan. 8, in the church basement.

90th Congress Session Does Much, Leaves Much

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress adjourned its first session after a prolonged running battle with President Johnson over taxes and spending. It talked much of economy but voted a record-breaking budget, hiked Social Security payments and raised the pay of federal employees, including the military.
It shelved Johnson's proposal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge but provided for sharply increased payroll levies to finance the broadened Social Security benefits. And it boosted postal rates.
It will return Jan. 15 to pick up where it left off, with a lot of unfinished business at hand for the presidential election year.
The 11-month session that started last Jan. 10 was highlighted by refusal to consider the President's request for an inflation fighting tax increase and a last-minute directive to the administration to cut spending about $4.1 billion—with Congress excluded from the reduction.
It was the longest session since 1963, when adjournment came on Dec. 30.
The 90th did not kill any of Johnson's "Great Society" programs enacted by the 89th Congress when there were 47 more Democrats in the House and four more in the Senate. But it reshaped some of them and cramped others financially.
It was a Congress frustrated by prolongation of the war in Vietnam, a burgeoning government deficit, rising crime and racial conflict, and the threat of higher taxes — along with the spectre of facing the voters next year under those politically embarrassing conditions.
It voted more for national defense, $82.13 billion, than any other Congress. Its total appropriations of around $157 billion set a record.
Although he described it as "a productive Congress," President Johnson didn't think much of its increased Republican membership. He referred to the GOP minority as "wooden soldiers of the status quo" who tried to kill some of his domestic programs.
House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan agreed that it was "a productive Congress," but credited what he called its good record to the presence of more Republicans.
Even some of the President's once-stalwart backers in his own party fell out with him over the war in Vietnam. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, missed few opportunities to jab at Johnson's foreign policy. And at the session's end Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota was trying to wrest the 1968 presidential nomination from Johnson.
It extended the draft law for four years; gave the anti-poverty program a two-year lease; continued the Teachers Corps; extended the food-stamp program, increased Social Security benefits; provided new benefits for veterans, enacted a reserve forces "bill of rights"; passed a meat-inspection law; raised the pay of government employees; boosted postal rates; financed the model-cities and rent subsidy programs; and continued the foreign-aid program with reduced financing.

Not acted on finally, in addition to tax increases, was legislation dealing with crime prevention, congressional reorganization, detailed disclosure of interest charges, protection of civil rights, copyright law revision, gun control, and election-law reforms.
Some of the major measures left on the shelf with adjournment have passed either the Senate or the House and will be in a position for advancement next year. Some have not yet emerged from committees.
In the field of national defense and internal security, Congress enacted laws to authorize procurement of $25 billion worth of military equipment, to build $2.3 billion worth of military housing and other construction, to spend

$2.6 billion for Atomic Energy Commission projects, and to continue the loan of naval vessels to friendly nations.
In international affairs, it did these things:
—Increased the U.S. share of financing the International Development Bank's fund for special operations.
—Continued the Peace Corps program.
—Ratified a treaty for exploration and use of outer space.
—Ratified the U.S.-Soviet consular agreement.
Domestic legislation enacted included:
—A ban against a threatened railroad strike pending recommendations of a special labor board.
—An increase in the national debt ceiling.
—Extension of the Appalachian Regional Development program.
—Extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission.
—Creation of a Public Broadcasting Corporation to facilitate

HERE IS A PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR THE MAN WHO ALREADY OWNS A WATCH.

It is an Accutron® timepiece. Watches have a balance wheel, a hairspring and a mainspring. The Accutron movement does not depend on watchworks. Instead, an electronic-powered tuning fork keeps precise time through vibrations. In fact, we guarantee monthly accuracy within 60 seconds.

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches, not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

Dear Abby: Is Send Thank You from Vietnam

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is stationed at Tan Son Nhut air force base, Viet Nam, and I would like to quote a part of the letter I received from him yesterday:
"There is a Sgt. Jefferson over here whose problem was 'no mail,' so he wrote to Dear Abby. She printed his letter and asked if some of her readers would care to write to him. Well, you would have to SEE the mail that poured in to have believed it. He got so much mail that he sorted it according to states, then he put a mimeographed notice in every mailbox here, saying that anyone who wanted some mail from his home state should come down and help himself. I was on duty then, but later I went down and took a bunch from Pennsylvania.
"Let me tell you Dee, the people in the United States are the greatest! I already knew that, but some of those letters were out of this world. Folks of all ages, and from all walks of life wrote to this sergeant. You should see the guys with all that mail. They are trying to answer as many as they can. So am I.
"This morning I wrote a letter to a mother in a little town in Pennsylvania I never even heard of. She has seven boys and just wrote to thank all the fellas over here for what we are doing for her and her seven sons. It really got me. I am so proud to be an American, and you can bet your bottom dollar that every one of the troops in this stinking place is saying the same thing, and I mean it from the bottom of my heart."
Well, Abby, I just thought one would like to know what one letter in the "Stars and Stripes" did for our men over there in Viet Nam. And I personally want to thank you for bringing so much happiness to so many people.
Sincerely yours,
DEAR ABBY: I am the Sgt. Malcolm Jefferson who wrote to you from Viet Nam. I said I was lonesome and wanted some mail for Christmas. You published my letter in your column, and so far I have received over 100,000 letters and 1,000 packages. They're still pouring in, and I've quit counting, but I am passing them around to the others who want mail. I've heard from all 50 states, and even some foreign countries. (I don't know why, but the two cities I received the most mail from were Dayton, Ohio, and Las Vegas, Nevada.)
Tell your readers that some of them may not receive a reply instantly, but I will personally do my best to answer as many as I can, if I'm still at it when I'm retired in the Old Soldiers' home. And if it is possible to answer mail in the world beyond, I'll do that too.

Someone suggested that I have "form letters" made up, saying, "Dear Friend, thank you for your letter, etc." But, Abby, how can you answer a 6-year-old girl, who wants to know if she can send you a Bible, with a form letter? And how can you answer a mother, whose only son was killed in Viet Nam, with a form letter? And how can you thank teachers with a form letter for having the whole class write to you? And how can you send a form letter to an 8-year-old boy who says he wishes he could send a big box of cookies over here for our fighting men, but his family is on welfare?
I heard from a 10-year-old girl in Rome, Italy. She said, "Malcolm, Dear, if you answer my letter, please don't put your return address on the envelope because my mother might wonder why a strange man is writing to me." Another girl, age 12, wrote, "I have 10 brothers, 4 sisters, 7 rabbits, 2 dogs, 3 cats, and 21 kittens."
Abby I did not receive one smartaleck letter. Everyone who wrote expressed appreciation for what we are doing over here. I want to thank them all from the bottom of my heart. God bless you, Dear Abby. And God bless America. SGT. MALCOLM JEFFERSON
TO MY READERS: I want to personally thank every man, woman and child who answered my plea and wrote to a lonely serviceman, and sent Christmas packages to Vietnamese orphans and refugees. The response was overwhelming! And to Feature Editor Peter Eiden, San Diego Union, and Representative Bob a special thanks, for having sent those letters and packages on their way, after learning that they had been held up by the defense department.
Unfortunately, some letters and packages were returned to their senders before the combined efforts of Editor Eiden and Representative Wilson became effective. And to those who sent them, my apologies.

HERE IS A PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR THE MAN WHO ALREADY OWNS A WATCH.

It is an Accutron® timepiece. Watches have a balance wheel, a hairspring and a mainspring. The Accutron movement does not depend on watchworks. Instead, an electronic-powered tuning fork keeps precise time through vibrations. In fact, we guarantee monthly accuracy within 60 seconds.*

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches; not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

Dear Abby: Is Send Thank You from Vietnam

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is stationed at Tan Son Nhut air force base, Viet Nam, and I would like to quote a part of the letter I received from him yesterday:

"There is a Sgt. Jefferson over here whose problem was 'no mail,' so he wrote to Dear Abby. She printed his letter and asked if some of her readers would care to write to him. Well, you would have to SEE the mail that poured in to have believed it. He got so much mail that he sorted it according to states, then he put a mimeographed notice in every mailbox here, saying that anyone who wanted some mail from his home state should come down and help himself. I was on duty then, but later I went down and took a bunch from Pennsylvania."

"Let me tell you Dee, the people in the United States are the greatest! I already knew that, but some of those letters were out of this world. Folks of all ages, and from all walks of life wrote to this sergeant. You should see the guys with all that mail. They are trying to answer as many as they can. So am I."

"This morning I wrote a letter to a mother in a little town in Pennsylvania I never even heard of. She has seven boys and just wrote to thank all the fellas over here for what we are doing for her and her seven sons. It really got me. I am so proud to be an American, and you can bet your bottom dollar that every one of the troops in this stinking place is saying the same thing, and I mean it from the bottom of my heart."

Well, Abby, I just thought one would like to know what one letter in the "Stars and Stripes" did for our men over there in Viet Nam. And I personally want to thank you for bringing so much happiness to so many people.

Sincerely yours,
DEAR ABBY: I am the Sgt. Malcolm Jefferson who wrote to you from Viet Nam. I said I was lonesome and wanted some mail for Christmas. You published my letter in your column, and so far I have received over 100,000 letters and 1,000 packages. They're still pouring in, and I've quit counting, but I am passing them around to the others who want mail. I've heard from all 50 states, and even some foreign countries. (I don't know why, but the two cities I received the most mail from were Dayton, Ohio, and Las Vegas, Nevada.)

Tell your readers that some of them may not receive a reply instantly, but I will personally do my best to answer as many as I can, or am still at it when I'm retired in the Old

Soldiers' home. And if it is possible to answer mail in the world beyond, I'll do that too.

Someone suggested that I have "form letters" made up, saying, "Dear Friend, thank you for your letter, etc." But, Abby, how can you answer a 6-year-old girl, who wants to know if she can send you a Bible, with a form letter? And how can you answer a mother, whose only son was killed in Viet Nam, with a form letter? And how can you thank teachers with the whole class write to you? And how can you send a form letter to an 8-year-old boy who says he wishes he could send a big box of cookies over here for our fighting men, but his family is on welfare?

I heard from a 10-year-old girl in Rome, Italy. She said, "Malcolm, Dear, if you answer my letter, please don't put your return address on the envelope because my mother might wonder why a strange man is writing to me." Another girl, age 12, wrote, "I have 10 brothers, 4 sisters, 7 rabbits, 2 dogs, 3 cats, and 21 kittens."

Abby I did not receive one smart-aleck letter. Everyone who wrote expressed appreciation for what we are doing over here. I want to thank them all from the bottom of my heart. God bless you, Dear Abby. And God bless America. SGT. MALCOLM JEFFERSON

TO MY READERS: I want to personally thank every man, woman and child who answered my plea and wrote to a lonely serviceman, and sent Christmas packages to Vietnamese orphans and refugees. The response was overwhelming! And to Feature Editor Peter Eiden, San Diego Union, and Representative Bob Wilson, for having sent those letters and packages on their way, after learning that they had been held up by the defense department.

Unfortunately, some letters and packages were returned to their senders before the combined efforts of Editor Eiden and Representative Wilson became effective. And to those who sent them, my apologies.

Fire Equipment Levy Ends; Funds Spent as Planned

HOSE DRYER — One of the newer pieces of equipment at the fire department is the hose dryer. Showing how wet hoses are coiled for drying and placed in the device, from the left, are Chet Echard, Martin Garner and Tom Miner.

A one-mill levy passed by the citizens of Circleville in 1964 to purchase equipment for the fire department expires this year.

The funds derived from the levy have been spent exactly as planned when the city asked for it according to Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe.

In many cases, spiraling price increases and an income that falls short of the estimate prevents government funds from levies being spent in the manner planned.

However, the fire equipment levy has provided a little more money than anticipated. The increased revenue was enough to cover any increased costs of equipment.

WITH the money, the city has purchased a $50,000 aerial ladder truck, a two way radio system with units in three trucks and a base station, 3,500 feet of fire hose, a new resuscitator, a hose dryer and has ordered a new pump to replace the 1940 Ford truck.

With all of the space of the first floor of the fire department taken up by trucks and living quarters for the men of the department, the second floor of the building was utilized for some of the new equipment.

A hose rack was taken upstairs and the hose dryer was installed on the second floor in what was once the room used for feed storage for horses which pulled early fire fighting apparatus.

In addition, a sign refacing machine purchased by the service department has been installed on the second floor.

Firemen make new signs from old for the city at a considerable savings. The machine laminates a reflectorized material to the metal "blanks."

In order to transport hoses and supplies more easily to the second floor, firemen designed and had built a hoist. The electrically-operated hoist utilizes a hole between the ground level and the second floor. At one time, the hole was opened and hoses were hung from the roof of the building to the floor for drying.

MORE recently, hoses were stretched out along the floor to the department for drying. In the winter it would take up to a week for hoses to dry. In the summer time the hoses were stretched along the sidewalk in front of the building.

With the new dryer, 500 feet of hose can be dried in eight to 10 hours. There are racks in the dryer and warm air is circulated through the coiled hoses.

The Circleville Fire Department is presently undermanned,

Illinois Slain In Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Police are asking the public for help in trying to unravel the roadside slaying of an Illinois man.

The victim, Francis D. Eck-enrode, 27, of Sparta, Ill., was shot to death early Sunday while dozing in a parked car with his teen-age sister and young son.

Police said a dark-skinned hitchhiker had been seen along the highway several hours before, holding a 1-by-4 foot sign reading, "Philly."

"The man may know something that will help us," said a state policeman. "If anyone knows anything about the man, they should notify authorities."

LIFT — Ingenuity on the part of members of the Circleville Fire Department eased the chore of transporting fire hose and other equipment to the second floor of the fire house. The members designed this electrically operated lift. Lt. Mike Brown (left) and Chet Echard demonstrate its operation.

SIGN MAKERS — A machine which laminates old metal street signs with reflector material has been installed at the fire department. The city realizes a savings in funds by refurbishing old signs rather than purchasing new ones. Showing how the signs are made, from the left, are Dale Edwards, Ron Sowers and Lt. Glen Jones.

but a civil service examination is scheduled Dec. 20 to fill the existing vacancies.

Personnel of the department includes Chief Wolfe, three lie-tenants, Glenn Jones, Mike Brown and Fred Howell, and five firemen, Tom Miner, Ron Sowers, Martin Garner, Dale Edwards and Chet Echard.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law. Here is another in the series.

Q. My classification of I-A has now gone forward on appeal. Can I be ordered to report for induction before the Appeal Board acts on my case?

A. No. An Order to Report for Induction will not be issued either during the period afforded a registrant to take an appeal or during the period an appeal is pending.

Q. What is the minimum time I have after I receive my "Order to Report for Induction" before I must report?

A. Selective Service regulations provide that the date specified for reporting for induction shall be at least 10 days after the date on which the Order to Report for Induction (SSS Form 252) is mailed to the registrant by his local board.

Q. Can an Order to Report for Induction ever be postponed by my local board, and if so, for what reason?

A. The local board may postpone an Order to Report for Induction in case of the death of a member of the registrant's immediate family, extreme emergency involving a member of the registrant's immediate family, serious illness of the registrant, or other extreme emergency beyond the registrant's control.

Man Hit by Bottle In Local Bar Brawl

Phillip Stewart, 218 E. Corwin St., was treated for a laceration of the right ear and the right side of his head by the Berger Hospital emergency staff early Saturday.

Stewart told Circleville Police he was hit with a beer bottle wielded by Charles Smith, Route 1, during an altercation that occurred at Bert's Bar, 618 Maplewood Ave.

The injured man reported the incident at 2:45 a. m. Saturday. He indicated to police that he intended to lodge charges against Smith.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Claus finds the key to open the door. Beyond the wall are bands of rollicking pygmies and flying reindeer. When the pygmies catch the deer, Tweedleknies tries to save them.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN THE PYGMIES

THE PYGMIES stared at Patrick Tweedleknies. "Who are you? What are you doing here?" they demanded. The elf glared back but he had never been so scared. He could not imagine how he had found the courage to face the fierce pygmies.

He saw the reindeer flying overhead. They rose and dipped, round and round, like horses on a merry-go-round.

"You said you were going to have reindeer meat for supper," growled Tweedleknies. "And why not?"

"You ought to be ashamed!" exploded the elf.

The pygmies burst into laughter. "Very well! We'll have elf meat instead."

The pounced on Tweedleknies. He twisted and writhed and bit and clawed and wormed out of their hands. He snatched up a sword and lashed off the head of the nearest pygmy.

The pygmy picked up his head and put it back on his neck. "You are a wild one!" he said admiringly. "We'll take you to our king."

"And who is your king?" asked someone. It was Claus. Unseen he had come into their midst.

"The Pigwidgen," said the pygmy. "The most powerful creature on earth."

Claus' knees shook. He wondered how he could conquer creatures who could not even lose their heads.

He tried to speak but before he could find his voice Patrick Tweedleknies said grandly, "Claus is more powerful than your old king!"

"Oh ho!" shouted the pygmies. "We shall see."

They seized Claus and Tweedleknies and carried them off to the castle. "We will eat while we wait for the king," they announced.

Tweedleknies wondered if they meant to have him for dinner but the pygmies bent over a tiny pot of stew. They filled their bowls and ate greedily. The pot was so small Claus could not understand how it could feed so many.

He leaned over the pot. To his surprise he saw it was as full as it had been at the start. The pygmies had seconds and thirds and fourths and all the time the pot stayed full.

"Does the pot never empty?" asked Claus.

"Never," boasted a pygmy. "If you are so powerful surely you have such a pot, too."

Claus shook his head and Tweedleknies exclaimed, "He could have if he wanted but it so happens he does not care for stew."

"What then does the great Claus like?" asked the pygmies with interest.

Claus turned on Tweedleknies. "Say no more!" he begged, for he knew not what awful boast the elf might make.

But Tweedleknies would not be quiet. "He likes roast pig!" he blurted. "And he can eat more than you or your old Pigwidgen can any time of day!"

At that moment the castle door slammed and the Pigwidgen himself entered the hall.

Parker as Director

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Good luck on a brand-new career," reads a telegram thumbed to a wall in Fess Parker's dressing room. "Hope this is the first of many."

Parker's new career—that of directing as well as starring in a segment of the Daniel Boone television series—was thus saluted by his producer.

"I've been involving myself more and more in the writing and production and decided it was time to get my feet wet as a director," drawled television's onetime Davy Crockett.

Parker, now 43 and a millionaire businessman, is in his fourth year as Boone. Some stars of long-running series become bored, he said—"merely deliver the body and leave. Or—a series can open up new vistas.

Six-foot-six Fess Elisha Parker Jr. has been finding new vistas ever since he came out of the University of Texas to spark a fanatical hero worship among U.S. small fry in 1955-56 as Davy Crockett, king of the wild frontier.

Kids wore so many coonskin caps like Davy's that the price of raccoon fur quadrupled in four months.

Merchandisers grossed nearly $500 million in Crockett clothes, guns, toys, etc. Parker's and 16 other recordings of the theme song sold eight million copies. Crowds up to 250,000 in Detroit besieged him on tours of U.S. cities and 13 foreign countries.

Parker tried to escape the frontier image with "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," 26 television episodes he now says "weren't too good. When I finally matured in this business I realized I should maximize my wonderful opportunity."

The maximizer of new vistas is a songwriter and recording star who has written a movie script that three major studios are considering. His company, Fespar Enterprises, Inc., is developing three movie properties and has a television series well along in the planning.

After a 10- or 12-hour work day, Parker changes from buckskins and boots to sports clothes from a $6,000 wardrobe that includes $250-suits and $30-shirts.

He drives home to his wife and two children in a Lincoln Continental sedan with saddle leather bucket seats specially tracked to accommodate his long legs.

The Parkers' Newport Beach residence is temporary. A pilot licensed to fly multiengine planes, Parker plans to commute 100 miles by helicopter to the $400,000-Spanish adobe he's building on 16 beachfront acres at Santa Barbara.

That city is where he owns a 328-unit mobile home park and plans to build another. He's on the board of regents of Santa Clara University. For relaxation he sails a 32-foot yacht and thumps a dressing room piano.

"Each area you move into," remarked the many-faceted Parker, "takes you one step farther into the next."

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau Summary for Ohio:

Cloudy skies, mild temperatures, intermittent rain and widespread heavy fog made up the Ohio weather picture this morning. Temperatures ranged from the upper 30s in the northwest corner of the state to the middle and upper 40s northeast and central, and into the lower 50s south. Rainfall was locally heavy overnight, mainly in the north.

A weak cold front extended down the Ohio-Indiana border early today, moving slowly eastward and expected to move across the state tonight. Temperatures will drop but remain above normal.

Rainfall will end over the state tonight and early Tuesday as the cold front moves through. Skies are expected to clear Tuesday.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Cloudy with intermittent rain and drizzle ending western sections late evening and east early Tuesday morning. Considerable fog tonight and a little cooler west. Low tonight 33-45. Partly cloudy and not much change in temperature Tuesday. A few showers likely extreme east early morning.

CENTRAL OHIO — Clearing and cooler tonight, low near 40. Tuesday partly cloudy and cooler.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Cloudy with intermittent rain tonight, low mid 40. Tuesday mostly cloudy and cooler.

NORTHWEST OHIO—Cloudy tonight with intermittent rain ending. Considerable fog for tonight, low 35-41. Partly cloudy and not much change in temperature Tuesday.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Occasional rain or drizzle and mild tonight, lows in 40s. Tuesday partly sunny and mild.

OHIO FIVE - DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average slightly above normal Tuesday through Saturday, with highs in the 30s and 40s and lows in the 20s and 30s. Mild weather early this will turn colder towards the weekend. Showers Tuesday and again Wednesday or Thursday and rain or snow near the end of the week will average at least .5 inch of liquid.

Sightseers Nearly Killed

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A Sunday afternoon outing nearly resulted in tragedy for a New Jersey pilot and his three children when their light plane crashed near here.

The pilot, Otto Burger, 41, of Wharton, N. J., was heading to Point Pleasant, W. Va., to view the scene of the bridge disaster which claimed the lives of several persons.

Burger's plane crashed into a corn field and bounced into a wooded hillside after it ran out of gas, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Burger and a son, David, 7, suffered minor injuries. Both were released following treatment at a hospital in nearby Bellaire.

Another son, Otto Jr., 10, suffered an arm fracture and a daughter, Evelyn, 9, received cuts and lacerations. Both were admitted to the hospital.

Heart Transplant Raises Fears

LONDON (AP) — Some British doctors and clergymen are worried that the successful heart transplant case of Louis Washkansky in South Africa has given doctors new God-like powers to decide who lives and who dies.

Granting the Dec. 3 surgery in South Africa was a medical triumph, the doctors and clergy fear a conflict may arise between a doctor's duty to do all he can to save a patient's life

Fire Is Fatal To Merchant

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—Fire destroyed the DeRienzo Spaghetti Shop here Sunday, killing the operator, 80-year-old Michael DeRienzo.

DeRienzo's wife and a waitress escaped after trying to get him out of the burning building.

Occupants of an apartment on the second floor of the 2½-story building also fled to safety. Another apartment above the restaurant was vacant.

Firemen said the fire started in the kitchen of the restaurant and apparently was caused by a deep fat fryer. No estimate of the loss was available.

and the doctor's anxiousness to save another patient's life by transplanting a heart, liver or other vital organs from the first patient.

Washkansky, meanwhile, said Friday night in Capetown he felt "100 per cent." In a tape recorded interview he also commented, "I feel very lucky to be the first man in the world to have a new heart."

In a letter to the London Times a Birmingham surgeon wrote:

"What is the next step—removal of a vital organ from a cancer patient who will probably die in six months, or from a mongol child who may not survive beyond the age of 20? I think we must watch our step."

The Rev. David Bartle, an Episcopalian, expanded on the same theme in another letter.

"It would seem that an old ethical problem about the preservation of life is being presented in a startling new form, since the heart must be taken from the donor so soon after death."

This, he said, raises the question of when death occurs—when the heart stops, when efforts to revive the heart fail, or when the doctor says death occurs?

The danger, he warned, is that "a hurried approach may lead to abuse of possible donors."

Prof. A.G. Riddell, head of surgery at the infirmary, said: "Anybody who comes into hospital, irrespective of whether he is a potential donor, will be treated with the best medical skill to save his life."

"He will not be treated by those who are going to perform a transplant. One cannot have a vested interest in a patient's death."

Demo Election Set in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Democratic nominee for the race to fill the vacancy in the Ohio House of Representatives created when Carl B. Stokes resigned to become mayor of Cleveland will be chosen Tuesday by voters in District 44.

The winner will oppose Republican Paul T. Haggard in a special runoff election Jan. 9.

Democrats seeking the nomination are Phillip De Laine, William Franklin, John W. Patton, Everett A. Chandler, Gerald J. Martin and John D. Thompson.

Braves Outshoot Huntsman To Grab 63-48 Decision

Logan Elm went on a 28-point scoring spree in the third and fourth quarters Saturday to hand visiting Huntington High School a 63-48 loss.

Trailing 30-22 two minutes after the second half began, the Braves began an unprecedented scoring feat that did not end until nearly three minutes of the fourth quarter had elapsed.

During that nine minute period, Logan Elm cagers tossed in 14 consecutive field goals. Scoreless in that time span, Huntington did not get a single offensive rebound and committed a number of turnovers.

For the first two periods and at the start of the third, Logan Elm cagers used a zone defense giving the visitors the long shot.

STEVE Bridenbaugh, the game's high scorer with 18 points, was deadily from 25 to 30 feet out when not pressed.

After Huntington had scored the first three baskets of the second half, LE coach Chuck Pritchard signaled for a time out by his players. The Braves came back on the floor in a half court press defensively which completely disrupted the Huntsmen attack.

The score at the end of the first period was 14-8. At half-time Huntington was leading 24-22. In the first two periods, the Braves only held the lead one time—22-20 with a minute to play in the half.

By the end of the third quarter Logan Elm's efforts on the court had given them a 44-30 lead. They were in front, 50-39 before the Huntsmen could get back on track again.

Hitting an even 50 per cent of their field goal attempts, the Braves canned 28 of 56 tries.

They could do no better at the foul line, where they made seven of 14 shots.

A well played game with a minimum of fouling until the closing minutes, the Braves did not capitalize on a charity opportunity until three minutes of the fourth quarter had passed.

THE Braves had 39 rebounds in the game. Eddie Young was credited with 11 by LE chartkeepers, Royce Woolever 10 and Dennis Karshner eight.

Logan Elm showed a balanced scoring effort with four of the five starters scoring in double figures. Danny Fausnaugh was the leading scorer for the Braves with seven field goals giving him a 14 point effort.

Karshner notched 13 in his first start of the season. Woolever and Young both scored 12 markers for the winners. Dale Jenne, the other starter, moving from his accustomed forward spot of the last two years to a guard slot, notched seven.

Other Braves cracking the scoring column were Richard Cree, who tipped in a missed shot for the Braves during the brief span he was on the floor, Mike Helwagen, who notched a foul shot, and Danny Cooper, who canned a shot from the field in the closing seconds of play.

Huntington made 19 of 46 shots from the field for a 41 per cent shooting average; converted 10 of 17 foul shots and was credited with only 14 rebounds.

The little Braves made a perfect night for the home fans, winning 44-31. Never trailing in the tilt, the LE junior varsity held margins of 10-3 at the end of the first quarter, 29-15 at halftime, 32-22 when the final canto began. At six point flurry at the end of the third quarter ballooned this lead.

D. J. HUMPHREY, a guard, paced the winners with 14 points.

The Braves are now idle until Dec. 27 and 28 when they play in the holiday tournament at Zane Trace. They meet Laurelville in the first game of the preliminary action.

The tourney's second event is a game between Huntington and Zane Trace. Logan Elm is the defending champion of the annual event.

Rams Dump Colts For Loss 34-10

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Johnny Unitas spent an endless hour hurrying in the wrong direction... and watching Los Angeles turn the National Football League's Coastal showdown into a Roman carnival.

Roman Gabriel, the Rams' strong-armed quarterback, eclipsed superstar Unitas Sunday by firing three touchdown passes as Los Angeles drubbed the previously unbeaten Baltimore Colts 34-10 for the Coastal Division title.

While Gabriel connected on 18 of 22 passes for 257 yards—to the delight of 77,277 revelers in the Los Angeles Coliseum—the Ram defenders hurried Unitas into two costly interceptions and dropped the NFL's Most Valuable Player seven times for losses totaling 48 yards.

"The crux of our defensive plan for this game," said LA Coach George Allen, "was not to allow Unitas enough time to throw the ball, because he can thread the needle in a crowd."

The Rams' Fearsome Foursome—Lamar Lundy, Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown—followed Allen's plan to the letter.

In snapping Baltimore's 13-game unbeaten streak, the Rams extended their own winning string to eight games and advanced into next Saturday's Western Conference championship playoff against Green Bay's Central Division kings.

Los Angeles and Baltimore tied 24-24 in their first meeting and finished in an 11-12 deadlock. The Rams, however, got the title nod by virtue of their point edge in the two games against the Colts.

The Packers, who nailed the Central crown three weeks ago, were upset by Pittsburgh 24-17 Sunday. New York pounded St. Louis 37-14. New Orleans stunned Washington 30-14. Philadelphia toppled Cleveland's Century champs 28-24. Chicago beat Atlanta 23-14 and Detroit trimmed Minnesota 14-3 in other games.

Dallas' Capitol Division winners, who meet Cleveland for the Eastern Conference championship next Sunday, bowed to San Francisco 24-16 Saturday.

HIS NUMBER'S UP—The No. 16 worn by Gary Beban, U.C.L.A. quarterback star, is being retired—the first at the school. Chancellor Franklin Murphy makes the announcement in Los Angeles as Beban listens.

Laurelville made 11 of 18 shots from the foul line while the hosts connected on 24 of 35 shots. Although the lost, the Wildcats outscored the hosts by 10 points from the field, sinking 31 shots compared to 26 for Unioto.

The Wildcat reserves won the preliminary tilt, 57-50, in an overtime.

The next game for Laurelville is Thursday at Berne Union. Originally scheduled Friday, the game time was moved up a day because of the Christmas holiday.

IN ANOTHER switch of game times, the Wildcats will meet Logan Elm at 7 p.m. in the first tilt of a twin bill at the Zane Trace holiday tournament Dec. 27.

Quadrangular Mat Event Lost By Circleville

The Circleville High School wrestling squad finished last in a quadrangular mat held at the new high school Saturday afternoon.

Lancaster won the meet with 84 points, Columbus South was second with 73, Walnut Ridge had 61 and Circleville 38.

Circleville forfeited in the 103 point class, having no competitor for that division.

In the 112 pound class, Randy Martin lost both his matches. Mike Smith was twice beaten in the 120 pound class. Steve Nelson also was defeated two times.

THE best performance for a Circleville wrestler was by Dean Martin in the 133 pound class. He defeated his first opponent 14-1 and his second, 1-0.

John Hickey, wrestling in the 138 pound class was beaten, 7-6, and 6-3. It was Hickey's first match.

Steve Lingo lost two matches and then won a third event, 4-2.

Mark Ralston at 154 pounds, was defeated 6-4 in his first match but won his second by a fall.

Jim Samuel, in his first varsity competition, lost his first match, won his second by a fall and then came back to lose by a 5-3 margin.

Bob Dean lost his first match, 6-2, won his second by a fall and lost his third, 4-2.

BRENT Liston, also in his first varsity match, lost by a fall to Bailey of Lancaster and then defeated Crites of Columbus South by a fall.

The next match for Circleville is Wednesday at Chillicothe.

Red Sox Sweep Batting Honors

BOSTON (AP) — The pennant-winning Boston Red Sox, with Triple Crown winner Carl Yastrzemski leading the way, virtually swept team batting honors in the American League for 1967.

The official figures released Saturday by League President Joe Cronin showed that Boston took team honors with a .255 batting average, 158 home runs, 666 runs batted in, 722 runs scored, 1,394 hits, and 2,162 total bases. They tied Minnesota for the lead in doubles with 216.

The only major categories in which the Red Sox did not finish on top were triples and stolen bases, where the speed-minded Kansas City Athletics showed the way with 50 and 132, respectively.

Mustangs Undeclared

Westfall Adds Amanda Aces To List, 62-55

Westfall won its sixth basketball game of the season Saturday, handing previously unbeaten Amanda-Clearcreek a 62-55 loss.

Although the Mustangs finished the game with a seven point margin, they led by only one with less than a minute to go.

Uncanny accuracy from the foul line was the key to the Mustang victory. They established a school record by sinking 22 of 24 shots from the charity stripe for a 92 per cent accuracy mark.

Gene Carfrey also set a new record at Westfall in the foul shooting department. He hit four in a row, bringing his consecutive foul shooting figure to 15.

CARFREY added five field goals to his foul shooting record for 14 markers.

Coach Paul Hoskins noted that Carfrey has developed into a fine sixth man for the Mustangs. "I can put him in at any position where we need help and he gets the job done," the Westfall mentor explained.

Amanda led, 10-6, at one point in the first quarter, but Westfall bounced into the lead by the end of the period and never trailed, although the Aces threatened in the closing minutes of the game.

The score at the end of the first period was 14-12 with the Mustangs leading. At halftime, they were in front, 32-37. They held a 10 point lead midway through the second quarter.

By the third quarter, Amanda edged back within two points of the winners, 42-40.

Game scoring laurels went to Charles Palmer of Westfall, he notched eight buckets from the field and eight at the foul line for a total of 24.

Andy Hamman scored 10 points on three field goals and four foul shots. Ed Cornwell scored six and Denny Fletcher and Tony Lightle had four each.

For Amanda, two cagers carried the bulk of the scoring load. Steve Kinser scored 18 points on eight field goals and two foul shots and Randy Poling notched 17 on five buckets from the field and seven at the charity stripe. Tom Davis scored 11 points for the losers.

Westfall cagers made 42 per cent of their field goal attempts. Amanda hit 13 of 17 shots from the foul line for a 76 per cent average.

The Aces have a 5-1 record. They are the leading team in the rugged Fairfield County basketball league.

The Mustangs won the preliminary game, 56-46.

Friday, Westfall faces its second undefeated basketball club when Southeastern, a state finalist last year, invades the Mustang gymnasium.

KINGS of the Ross County League race, the Southeastern Panthers have only two lettermen returning from the squad that got as far as St. John's arena in the state finals before losing in tournament play. They are Doug Hill and Ray Tackett.

However, Southeastern cage fans believe this year's squad may be better than last year.

Black Hawks Beat Toronto

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was the Night of the Hat in the National Hockey League but petite Pit Martin deserves at least a cap.

It was Martin's goal with 6 1/2 minutes left to play that broke a scoreless tie and started the Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-0 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night.

That moved the Hawks, who dropped their first six games this season, into a tie with idle Boston for the NHL's East Division lead. Chicago has lost just three of the last 25 games since snapping the losing streak.

Elsewhere Sunday, Rod Gilbert's three-goal hat trick led New York to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis. Detroit's Norm Ullman and Montreal's Jean Beliveau traded three-goal performances as the Red Wings outlasted the Canadiens 8-6, and Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh 2-1.

Jets Lose; Ewbank Raps Officiating

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Coach Weeb Ewbank thinks the New York Jets were at a disadvantage after the opening kickoff. Maybe. But one thing is certain—they are at a disadvantage now.

"This will probably cost me money, but I've got to say it," Ewbank fumed after Sunday's 38-29 loss to the Oakland Raiders.

He then scored the officials "for letting the game get out of hand. I thought the officiating was poor. I feel we were at a disadvantage after the kickoff."

Ewbank's criticism not only most likely will cost him money in the form of a league fine, the loss very likely will cost the Jets a shot at the American Football League title.

The Jets, 7-5-1, now trail Houston, 24-17 winner over San Diego Saturday, by one game in the Eastern Division race.

Houston can win the title and the right to meet Western Division champion Oakland, 12-1-0, for the league crown by beating Miami next Saturday. The Jets play San Diego next Sunday.

Braves Outshoot Huntsman To Grab 63-48 Decision

Logan Elm went on a 28-point scoring spree in the third and fourth quarters Saturday to hand visiting Huntington High School a 63-48 loss.

Trailing 30-22 two minutes after the second half began, the Braves began an unprecedented scoring feat that did not end until nearly three minutes of the fourth quarter had elapsed.

During that nine minute period, Logan Elm cagers tossed in 14 consecutive field goals. Scoreless in that time span, Huntington did not get a single offensive rebound and committed a number of turnovers.

For the first two periods and at the start of the third, Logan Elm cagers used a zone defense giving the visitors the long shot.

STEVE Bridenbaugh, the game's high scorer with 18 points, was deadly from 25 to 30 feet out when not pressed.

After Huntington had scored the first three baskets of the second half, LE coach Chuck Pritchard signaled for a time out by his players. The Braves came back on the floor in a half court press defensively which completely disrupted the Huntsmen attack.

The score at the end of the first period was 14-8. At halftime Huntington was leading 24-22. In the first two periods, the Braves only held the lead one time—22-20 with a minute to play in the half.

By the end of the third quarter Logan Elm's efforts on the court had given them a 44-30 lead. They were in front, 50-30 before the Huntsmen could get back on track again.

Hitting an even 50 per cent of their field goal attempts, the Braves canned 28 of 56 tries.

They could do no better at the foul line, where they made seven of 14 shots.

A well played game with a minimum of fouling until the closing minutes, the Braves did not capitalize on a charity opportunity until three minutes of the fourth quarter had passed.

THE Braves had 39 rebounds in the game. Eddie Young was credited with 11 by LE chartkeepers. Royce Woollever 10 and Dennis Karshner eight.

Logan Elm showed a balanced scoring effort with four of the five starters scoring in double figures. Danny Fausnaugh was the leading scorer for the Braves with seven field goals giving him a 14 point effort.

Karshner notched 13 in his first start of the season. Woollever and Young both scored 12 markers for the winners. Dale Jenne, the other starter, moving from his accustomed forward spot of the last two years to a guard slot, notched seven.

Other Braves cracking the scoring column were Richard Cree, who tipped in a missed shot for the Braves during the brief span he was on the floor.

Laurelville Wildcats Lose SVC Tilt to Unioto, 76-73

Laurelville was edged by Unioto Saturday, 76-73, in a game played on the Shermans' floor.

The loss gives the Wildcats a 1-1 record in the Scioto Valley Conference. Overall they have won five and lost four games this season.

In the first quarter, Laurelville held a 22-10 lead, but by the end of the period the Shermans had narrowed the margin separating the two teams to five points, 26-21.

By halftime the Shermans had pulled ahead, 38-36, and as the final canto started, they were leading, 55-49. With about 2 1/2 minutes to play, Laurelville gained a one point edge, 70-69.

BOB Bowers, the Wildcat center, fouled out just after Laurelville went ahead, and the Shermans regained the lead.

The leading scorer in the game was Mike Hoffner, a 5-10 junior guard for the Don Neff coached Shermans. He hit eight field goals and 10 foul shots for 26 points.

Mike Chestnut and Mike Kneese scored 23 and 20 points respectively for the Wildcats. Bowers, the leading scorer for Laurelville, was held to 11 markers by the Shermans.

Laurelville made 11 of 18 shots from the foul line while the hosts connected on 24 of 35 shots. Although the lost, the Wildcats outscored the hosts by 10 points from the field, sinking 31 shots compared to 26 for Unioto.

The Wildcat reserves won the preliminary tilt, 57-50, in an overtime.

Rams Dump Colts For Loss 34-10

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Unitas spent an endless hour hurrying in the wrong direction ... and watching Los Angeles turn the National Football League's Coastal showdown into a Roman carnival.

Roman Gabriel, the Rams' strong-armed quarterback, eclipsed superstar Unitas Sunday by firing three touchdown passes as Los Angeles drubbed the previously unbeaten Baltimore Colts 34-10 for the Coastal Division title.

While Gabriel connected on 18 of 22 passes for 257 yards—to the delight of 77,277 revelers in the Los Angeles Coliseum—the Ram defenders hurried Unitas into two costly interceptions and dropped the NFL's Most Valuable Player seven times for losses totaling 48 yards.

"The crux of our defensive plan for this game," said LA Coach George Allen, "was not to allow Unitas enough time to throw the ball, because he can thread the needle in a crowd."

The Rams' Fearsome Foursome—Lamar Lundy, Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown—followed Allen's plan to the letter.

In snapping Baltimore's 13-game unbeaten streak, the Rams extended their own winning string to eight games and advanced into next Saturday's Western Conference championship playoff against Green Bay's Central Division kings.

Los Angeles and Baltimore tied 24-24 in their first meeting and finished in an 11-1-2 deadlock. The Rams, however, got the title nod by virtue of their point edge in the two games against the Colts.

The Packers, who nailed the Central crown three weeks ago, were upset by Pittsburgh 24-17 Sunday. New York pounded St. Louis 37-14. New Orleans stunned Washington 30-14. Philadelphia toppled Cleveland's Century champs 28-24. Chicago beat Atlanta 23-14 and Detroit trimmed Minnesota 14-3 in other games.

Dallas' Capitol Division winners, who meet Cleveland for the Eastern Conference championship next Sunday, bowed to San Francisco 24-16 Saturday.

HIS NUMBER'S UP—The No. 16 worn by Gary Beban, U.C.L.A. quarterback star and Heisman Trophy winner, is being retired—the first at the school. Chancellor Franklin Murphy makes the announcement in Los Angeles as Beban listens.

Quadrangular Mat Event Lost By Circleville

The Circleville High School wrestling squad finished last in a quadrangular meet held at the new high school Saturday afternoon.

Lancaster won the meet with 84 points, Columbus South was second with 73, Walnut Ridge had 61 and Circleville 38.

Circleville forfeited in the 103 point class, having no competitor for that division.

In the 112 pound class, Randy Martin lost both his matches. Mike Smith was twice beaten in the 120 pound class. Steve Nelson also was defeated two times.

THE best performance for a Circleville wrestler was by Dean Martin in the 133 pound class. He defeated his first opponent 14-1 and his second, 1-0.

John Hickey, wrestling in the 138 pound class was beaten, 7-6, and 6-3. It was Hickey's first match.

Steve Lingo lost two matches and then won a third event, 4-2.

Mark Ralston at 154 pounds, was defeated 6-4 in his first match but won his second by a fall.

Jim Samuel, in his first varsity competition, lost his first match, won his second by a fall and then came back to lose by a 5-3 margin.

Bob Dean lost his first match, 6-2, won his second by a fall and lost his third, 4-2.

BRENT Liston, also in his first varsity match, lost by a fall to Bailey of Lancaster and then defeated Crites of Columbus South by a fall.

The next match for Circleville is Wednesday at Chillicothe.

Red Sox Sweep Batting Honors

BOSTON (AP) — The pennant-winning Boston Red Sox, with Triple Crown winner Carl Yastrzemski leading the way, virtually swept team batting honors in the American League for 1967.

The official figures released Saturday by League President Joe Cronin showed that Boston took team honors with a .255 batting average, 158 home runs, 666 runs batted in, 722 runs scored, 1,394 hits, and 2,162 total bases. They tied Minnesota for the lead in doubles with 216.

The only major categories in which the Red Sox did not finish on top were triples and stolen bases, where the speed-minded Kansas City Athletics showed the way with 50 and 132, respectively.

Mustangs Undefeated

Westfall Adds Amanda Aces To List, 62-55

Westfall won its sixth basketball game of the season Saturday, handing previously unbeaten Amanda-Clearcreek a 62-55 loss.

Although the Mustangs finished the game with a seven point margin, they led by only one with less than a minute to go.

Uncanny accuracy from the foul line was the key to the Mustang victory. They established a school record by sinking 22 of 24 shots from the charity stripe for a 92 per cent accuracy mark.

Gene Carfrey also set a new record at Westfall in the foul shooting department. He hit four in a row, bringing his consecutive foul shooting figure to 15.

CARFREY added five field goals to his foul shooting record for 14 markers.

Coach Paul Hoskins noted that Carfrey has developed into a fine sixth man for the Mustangs. "I can put him in at any position where we need help and he gets the job done," the Westfall mentor explained.

Amanda led, 10-6, at one point in the first quarter, but Westfall bounced into the lead by the end of the period and never trailed, although the Aces threatened in the closing minutes of the game.

The score at the end of the first period was 14-12 with the Mustangs leading. At halftime, they were in front, 32-37. They held a 10 point lead midway through the second quarter.

By the third quarter, Amanda edged back within two points of the winners, 42-40.

Game scoring laurels went to Charles Palmer of Westfall, he notched eight buckets from the field and eight at the foul line for a total of 24.

Andy Hamman scored 10 points on three field goals and four foul shots. Ed Cornwell scored six and Denny Fletcher and Tony Lightle had four each.

For Amanda, two cagers carried the bulk of the scoring load. Steve Kinser scored 18 points on eight field goals and two foul shots and Randy Poling notched 17 on five buckets from the field and seven at the charity stripe. Tom Davis scored 11 points for the losers.

Westfall cagers made 42 per cent of their field goal attempts. Amanda hit 13 of 17 shots from the foul line for a 76 per cent average.

The Aces have a 5-1 record. They are the leading team in the rugged Fairfield County basketball league.

The Mustangs won the preliminary game, 56-46.

Friday, Westfall faces its second undefeated basketball club when Southeastern, a state finalist last year, invades the Mustang gymnasium.

KINGS of the Ross County League race, the Southeastern Panthers have only two lettermen returning from the squad that got as far as St. John's arena in the state finals before losing in tournament play. They are Doug Hill and Ray Tackett.

However, Southeastern cagers believe this year's squad may be better than last year.

Otterbein Forfeits Game To Heidelberg after Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There was a variety of activity in weekend Ohio college basketball, and at Tiffin one game closely resembled a boxing match.

Heidelberg, playing host to Otterbein, claimed a 33-37 forfeit decision over the Otters and took over first place in the Ohio Conference race with a 5-0 mark.

The forfeit came after a fight erupted between players and fans.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati came through in an overtime thriller, dumping Kansas State in the Sunflower Double header; Rice dropped an 82-58 decision to Dayton; and Butler upset Toledo 73-70.

The dispute at Tiffin erupted when several spectators, angered by a rough play, rushed onto the floor. In the melee, Otterbein's Jim McKee was slugged. Otter Coach Curt Tong sent his team to the dressing room with 11:29 to play and OC Commissioner Charles Smith, who was watching the game, declared it a forfeit.

Elsewhere, Marshall put its entire starting five in double figures as the Thundering Herd dropped Kent State 81-65 in the Mid-American Conference season opener; Youngstown grabbed an early lead and never yielded as the Penguins dumped Illinois Wesleyan 97-83; Bowling Green stretched its winning string to four with a 68-48 triumph over Northern Illinois; Ohio Northern turned back Hampden-Sydney of Virginia 83-76 to take fifth place in the Quantico Marines Christmas Tourney; Earl Higgins got 27 points in leading Eastern

Tony Jeffries Wins Grand Prix

FREEMONT, Bahamas (AP) — The new champion of Grand Bahama auto racing is Tony Jeffries, a slender South African who is a mechanic by trade, and a man who dreams of becoming the road racing champion of the world.

Fighting off an early challenge from Americans and a late rush by a pack of Austrians, the 26-year-old Jeffries roared to victory Sunday in the Grand Prix of Formula V and carried off his biggest jackpot in six years of racing, a $10,000 prize.

Michigan to a 93-68 victory over Baldwin - Wallace; Wittenberg overcame a 26-26 halftime deadlock to outlast Mount Union 51-46; Wooster cruised to an easy 84-60 triumph at Lake Forest; Jerry and Jim Carder combined for 42 points as Findlay rolled to its sixth straight victory, a 97-91 decision over Manchester; Ashland claimed its 19th straight home victory by dumping Kenyon 65-51; and Urbana defeated Cedarville 110-100 in overtime.

The weekend frustration award goes to Rio Grande's Tony Bass. Bass pumped in 47 points for the Redmen, who lost to Cumberland 117-102.

Hawks Beat Warriors; Poor Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Miami Beach, Fla., is not known as a basketball town, and somebody must have told the St. Louis Hawks and the San Francisco Warriors.

The Hawks made less than 40 per cent of their field goal attempts. The Warriors made just 26 per cent of theirs. The Hawks won 97-79.

San Francisco was particularly inept in the second half. Leading 49-45 at intermission, the Warriors were able to make only 10 of 55 shots from the floor and scored 30 points in the second half. Their total was one of the lowest in NBA history.

The hottest of the cold shooting hands belonged to the Hawks' Lennie Wilkens, who made a game-high six field goals and 10-of-10 foul shots for 22 points. Nate Thurmond scored 16 for the Warriors, who fell 3½ games behind first-place St. Louis in the Western Division.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia whipped Seattle 129-124, Boston edged Los Angeles 123-117 and San Diego nipped Detroit 117-115.

Browns Lose To Eagles In Yawner

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Any resemblance between the Cleveland Browns who lost Sunday, 28-24, to the Philadelphia Eagles and the Browns who play the Dallas Cowboys next Sunday for the Eastern Conference title of the National Football League has to be coincidental.

The 60,658 fans who witnessed the Browns - Eagles yawner couldn't tell the Browns without a program.

Cleveland Coach Blanton Collier kept several of his regulars on the bench, resting for the all-important game against the Cowboys.

You couldn't blame Collier. The Eagles game was meaningless, since Cleveland clinched its division title a week ago. He didn't want to risk further injuries to his key performers.

On the bench as the Eagles overcame a 10-7 halftime deficit to gain a 28-10 lead in the final quarter were quarterback Frank Ryan, Running back Ernie Barnes and Jim Houston and offensive tackle Monte Clark. Leroy Kelly, the league's top ground gainer, played only 2½ quarters, while veterans John Wooten, Gene Hickerson and Ross Fichtner didn't play in the second half.

Denver in Bid For Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — Mile-high Denver, host to numerous international ice and snow events, is given a better than even chance of landing the 1976 Winter Olympic Games.

The Colorado capital received the strong backing of the U.S. Olympic Committee Sunday and the city turned its attention to the job of influencing delegates to the International Olympic Committee meeting at Antwerp, Belgium, in 1970.

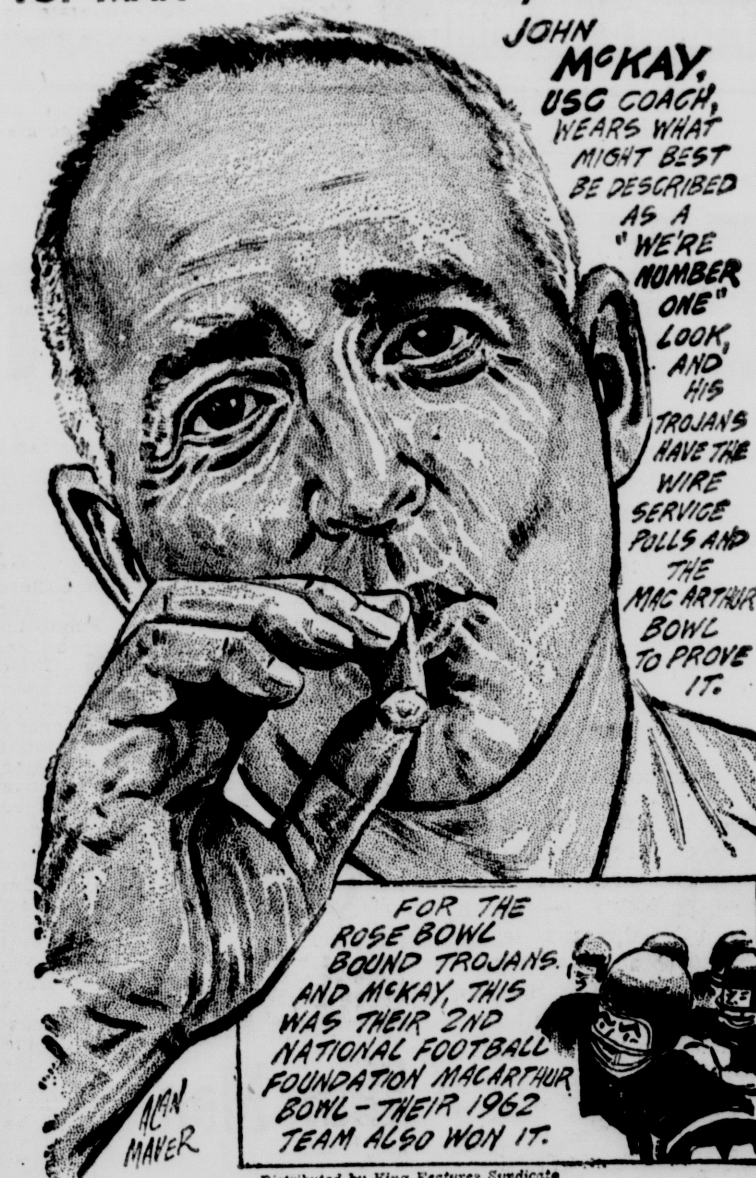

That's when the 1976 site will be officially picked, as well as the grounds for the Summer Games of the same year.

The United States, celebrating its bi-centennial in that year, is making a concerted effort for both.

Third-ranked Vanderbilt, which survived a determined bid by an underdog, and sixth-ranked Boston College, which didn't, lead the way into college basketball's annual round of holiday tournaments this week.

The Commodores, who outlasted Duke 76-75 Saturday night, open their own invitational tournament in Nashville, Tenn., Friday with a game against Seton Hall. Oregon meets Wake Forest in the other first-round game.

The Eagles, upset in 91-90 overtime by St. John's, N.Y., meet North Carolina State Wednesday in a first-round game in the Boston Garden's invitational. Providence and La-Salle are also in the tournament.

Fourth-ranked Kentucky, which lost to North Carolina last week, hosts its tournament which opens Friday in Lexington, Ky. The Colonels play Dayton while Cincinnati meets South Carolina.

Other tournaments that get under way this week are: Tampa, Fla., Invitational, which begins Wednesday, with Seattle, Rutgers, Auburn and St. Bonaventure.

Marshall tournament at Huntington, W.Va., which begins Wednesday with Manhattan, Bowling Green, Marshall and Virginia.

Sun Carnival at El Paso, T which begins Thursday, with Maryland, the University of Texas at El Paso, Southern Illinois and San Francisco.

Sun Devil Classic at Phoenix, Ariz., which begins Thursday, with Michigan, Arizona State, Oregon State and Oklahoma State.

In addition, one tournament that started over the weekend, the Virginia-VPI Invitational at Blacksburg, Va., finishes up tonight with Yale and Virginia playing for the championship.

Seventh-ranked North Carolina bumped 10th-rated Princeton from the unbeaten ranks Saturday, downing the Tigers 71-63. Sophomore Charlie Scott had 17 points for the Tarheels.

Ninth-rated Indiana beat North Carolina State 101-97 with sophomore Joe Cooke's 27 points leading the way. Calvin Murphy, Niagara's star sophomore pumped in 52 points, leading his team to a 100-38 victory over La-Salle.

Solons Demand Viet Land Reform Seen

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the chairman and ranking Republican on a House subcommittee have urged U.S. officials to pressure the South Vietnamese government to accelerate land distribution and other reforms. They say the Viet Cong is way ahead of Saigon in this respect.

says the South Vietnamese have pledged to take such action. Steps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House foreign operations and government information subcommittee; and Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., told Rusk in a letter released Saturday night that land reform should begin immediately. Sources said their letter, which charged the Viet Cong land distribution program has involved five times as much land as that of the government, contained the conclusions of a forthcoming subcommittee report.

One Injured In Accident

An accident at 3:45 a.m. Sunday on rain soaked Route 665 one-half mile west of Grove Port sent a Circleville resident to the hospital. Kenneth Dillon, Route 2, was taken to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, after his car ran off the right side of Route 665, went down a slight embankment, struck a farm fence, continued east and struck a steep embankment at a farm lane and went end over end two times before coming to rest. The Highway Patrol issued no citation.

its undertaking a true commitment of action with regard to the pressing problems of land reform. Rusk replied to the letter by saying the State Department already is looking toward further action by the Saigon government regarding land matters. He said this includes "the whole broader field of agricultural development and reform." Rusk said South Vietnam's newly elected government has made clear it plans further action on land distribution and reform. He referred to Prime Minister Nguyen Loc's statement pledging the government would distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have bought expropriated rice fields.

On Aug. 28, Moss and Reid wrote Rusk, when the subcommittee's previous reports were issued, that "the American people have the right to expect either prompt and meaningful substantive action by the government of Vietnam to deal effectively with the problem we have detailed or a searching reassessment of the United States' position." Reid said in a weekend interview that one major problem is the attitude of both North Vietnam and South Vietnam toward the U.S. commitment. "I think that our government is not always taken seriously in Hanoi and is taken for granted in Saigon," he said. Reid added that officials in Saigon incorrectly tend to regard the U.S. commitment in Vietnam as an "indefinite blank check." Overall, he continued, "the pace and the scope of social and economic reform is far too limited." The letter from Moss and Reid listed these conclusions: 1. Distribution of land was at a virtual standstill between 1962 and 1967. 2. "The present maximum retention limit of 247 acres may well be excessive. A retention limit of seven to 10 acres would appear to be more equitable."

De Gaulle To Balk In Market Talks

BRUSSELS (AP) — Britain's friends in the European Common Market launched a two-day effort today to open negotiations on Britain's membership application. President Charles de Gaulle was expected to balk them again. Foreign ministers or their representatives from all the member countries—West Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—were assembled for the meeting of the Common Market Council. Britain was not invited. Five of the six members want to start negotiations with Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark, and the sooner the better. Only France is opposed. But De Gaulle has insisted on keeping a veto for such matters, and the others have failed to budge him. The five say they want a clear answer by Tuesday from the French on whether negotiations can start so that everyone can see who is responsible. West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt has threatened to hold up action on a matter of vital interest to France, relations between the Common Market and Africa. Belgium is reported delaying an order for French Mirage planes to add to the pressure. Chances are good for a compromise that would delay matters again, although the British say they want a clear answer too.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Arthur Meyers, a 53-year-old Cincinnati man, was found dead in his car here Sunday by his sister, Anna Meyers.

Portsmouth Soldier Injured in Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Pvt. Thomas O. McCoy of Portsmouth, Ohio, was one of several soldiers who remained in good condition late Sunday night as a result of a bus accident. The chartered bus, carrying military men on Christmas leave, overturned on u.s. 62 180 Saturday, killing three soldiers and injuring several others.

Miss Meyers said she found her brother in his car parked in the garage at their home. Police said the ignition key was turned on and the radio was playing and the car door next to him was open as was the garage door.

Solons Demand Viet Land Reform Seen

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the chairman and ranking Republican on a House subcommittee have urged U.S. officials to pressure the South Vietnamese government to accelerate land distribution and other reforms. They say the Viet Cong is way ahead of Saigon in this respect.

Girl Is Slain; Father Held

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wade Suber, 48, was charged Sunday with second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Winifred Suber, 16, one of his two teenage daughters.

She died in Grant Hospital late Saturday after she and a sister, Wanda, 17, were shot at their mother's home. Mrs. Suber and her husband are divorced. Wanda remained in fair condition.

says the South Vietnamese have pledged to take such action.

Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House foreign operations and government information subcommittee; and Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., told Rusk in a letter released Saturday night that land reform should begin immediately.

Sources said their letter, which charged the Viet Cong land distribution program has involved five times as much land as that of the government, contained the conclusions of a forthcoming subcommittee report.

"We trust that during the impending period of congressional adjournment," Moss and Reid wrote, "the Department of State will take such action as is necessary to make crystal clear to the government of South Vietnam the imperative nature of

An accident at 3:45 a.m. Sunday on rain soaked Route 665 one-half mile west of Grove Port sent a Circleville resident to the hospital.

Kenneth Dillon, Route 2, was taken to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, after his car ran off the right side of Route 665, went down a slight embankment, struck a farm fence, continued east and struck a steep embankment at a farm lane and went end over end two times before coming to rest.

The Highway Patrol issued no citation.

its undertaking a true commitment of action with regard to the pressing problems of land reform."

Rusk replied to the letter by saying the State Department already is looking toward further action by the Saigon government regarding land matters. He said this includes "the whole broader field of agricultural development and reform."

Rusk said South Vietnam's newly elected government has made clear it plans further action on land distribution and reform. He referred to Prime Minister Nguyen Loc's statement pledging the government would distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have bought expropriated rice fields.

On Aug. 28, Moss and Reid wrote Rusk, when the subcommittee's previous reports were issued, that "the American people have the right to expect either prompt and meaningful substantive action by the government of Vietnam to deal effectively with the problem we have detailed or a searching reassessment of the United States' position."

Reid said in a weekend interview that one major problem is the attitude of both North Vietnam and South Vietnam toward the U.S. commitment.

"I think that our government is not always taken seriously in Hanoi and is taken for granted in Saigon," he said. Reid added that officials in Saigon incorrectly tend to regard the U.S. commitment in Vietnam as an "indefinite blank check."

Over-all, he continued, "the pace and the scope of social and economic reform is far too limited."

The letter from Moss and Reid listed these conclusions:

1. Distribution of land was at a virtual standstill between 1962 and 1967.

2. "The present maximum retention limit of 247 acres may well be excessive. A retention limit of seven to 10 acres would appear to be more equitable."

3. Only 667,000 of 2.47 million acres have been distributed to 128,000 families since 1954, including 51,800 acres to 12,000 families this year.

4. "The Viet Cong during this period have instituted their own land reform program—reportedly distributing some five times the amount of land distributed by the government—and this program has not been effectively countered."

De Gaulle To Balk In Market Talks

BRUSSELS (AP) — Britain's friends in the European Common Market launched a two-day effort today to open negotiations on Britain's membership application. President Charles de Gaulle was expected to balk them again.

Foreign ministers or their representatives from all the member countries—West Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—assembled for the meeting of the Common Market Council. Britain was not invited.

Five of the six members want to start negotiations with Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark, and the sooner the better. Only France is opposed. But De Gaulle has insisted on keeping a veto for such matters, and the others have failed to budge him.

The five say they want a clear answer by Tuesday from the French on whether negotiations can start so that everyone can see who is responsible.

West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt has threatened to hold up action on a matter of vital interest to France, relations between the Common Market and Africa. Belgium is reported delaying an order for French Mirage planes to add to the pressure.

Chances are good for a compromise that would delay matters again, although the British say they want a clear answer too.
